County Adopts Record Budget

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday unanimously adopted a record $15.9 million county budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year but the county levy will not be set until after the county's valuation has been certified by the state.

Of the record $15,984,652 total requirements, only $5,739,771 will need to be raised by taxation requiring a mill levy estimated at 11.779 mills.

This is a drop from the 13.83 mills adopted for the 1971-72 budget although the total budget is up 23% over last year's adopted budget of $13,006,402.

Added Property Valuation

Added valuation of property in the county resulting from new construction and adjusted values on existing properties result in the anticipated drop in the mill levy for the coming year.

The general fund portion of the total budget dropped in property tax needs to $1,809,663 from $2,389,301 last year.

With the rising cost of medical care, the county's budget reflects a considerable increase in its medical budget from county taxes for welfare patients. The amount to be raised by taxation increased to $1,030,295 for 1972-73 as compared to $808,067 for 1971-72.

Considerable Increases

Other budgets which took considerable leaps are Lancaster Manor and the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR).

The LOMR budget jumped from $592,260 in actual expenses during the 1971-72 fiscal year to $1,152,151 adopted for 1972-73.

Lancaster Manor budget adopted for the coming year totals $1,053,420 as compared with expenditures last year of $577,456.

Additional $1,000 Nixed

A request by Sheriff Merle Karnopp to add $1,000 to his budget Tuesday was denied by the commissioners but the board authorized the sheriff to send two deputies to narcotics school for which he made the added request.

It was noted that to add to the budget at this point would be impossible since it would be necessary to readvertise the budget and the statutes provide that the budget must be adopted by Aug. 15.

Karnopp told the board that he had not originally included the costs for sending two deputies to the school in his budget because it was slated for Lincoln but the location has since been changed.

Travel and Expenses

He estimated it would cost about $1,000 for travel expenses and board and room for two weeks.

The Commissioners indicated that the necessary funds could be taken out of the commissioners' miscellaneous fund.

Shown below is a comparison of the adopted 1972-73 budgets with the actual expenses for the previous year and the amounts to be raised by taxation:

CITY BUDGET HEARING . . . attracts capacity audience to City Council Chamber.

Spending For NE Radial Rapped

. . . $500,000 CITY BUDGET ITEM OPPOSED AT HEARING

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Over 175 people packed the City Council chamber Tuesday night to plead for the inclusion of a number of items in the 1972-73 City budget — ranging from the Northeast Branch library to new recreational facilities to the police helicopter.

In addition, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf asked the council to add $6.9 million to the capital improvements budget for construction of the proposed multi-purpose complex in downtown Lincoln.

However, one group strongly urged the deletion of a major item—funds for the proposed Northeast Radial.

Major Concern

Elimination of the $500,000 proposed for land acquisition fees for the radial and Holdrege St. bypass, from 9th to 49th, was the major concern of over 40 citizens attending the public hearing on Schwartzkopf's proposed $62 million budget.

Petitions with over 900 signatures protesting the arterial were presented by Bea Richmond, president of the City-Wide Tenants Association, who contended the radial would impose a hardship on landowners and tenants.

Ron Kuehn of the Lincoln Action Program, said the radial "is against the best interest of the people we represent," and contended the arterial would not produce "sound, urban growth."

Number of Questions

He asked the council to consider a number of questions before including $500,000 in the budget for land acquisition, including the ultimate benefits of the freeway, alternate routes and the effect the radial would have on the Malone and Clinton areas.

In answer to a question from Mayor Schwartzkopf regarding a booklet on the radial sent to the council entitled, "A Freeway in Search of a Reason," Legal Aid Society attorney Douglas German said the no federal funds were used to publish the pamphlet. German added that the articles were written by himself and low-income groups.

Roger Schluntz, representing the Citizens for Improved Planning, contended that there are many other needs, such as those presented to the council during the Public hearing, which are greater than the need for the radial.

Strong Support

However, John DuPont, representing the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, voiced the chamber's strong support for construction of the Northeast Radial.

DuPont emphasized that studies consistently have shown a need for the radial and urged accelerated right-of-way purchases.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf was among those requesting the inclusion of additional funds in the budget.

The mayor requested the addition of $6.9 million for the proposed multi-purpose complex in downtown Lincoln which would house a central bus terminal, parking garage and low-income housing for the elderly.

No Tax Funds

Stressing that no property or sales tax funds for the project are contemplated, he noted that inclusion of the project in the budget is necessary to meet federal requirements for a grant which would provide two-third's funding for the bus terminal portion.

The remaining one-third share would come from local matching funds provided by general obligation bonds, wheel tax and on-street parking meter revenues, which should raise over $800,000, he said. Overall cost of the bus terminal is estimated at $2.5 million.

Only one citizen, Charles Kitchen, appeared in opposition to the proposed multi-purpose complex, which would be bounded by 11th and 12th and N and O.

On another topic the council heard a plea for a stay of execution on the Northeast Branch library, which the Library Board has recommended by closed.

David Erbach said continued operation of the library is necessary to "halt the decay of the neighborhood" and stressed that many of the low income and elderly who live in the area are without transportation and thus could not easily travel to other library facilities.

On another request for city funds, Everett Shirk presented a petition signed by 79% homeowners in East Lincoln requesting a municipal swimming pool somewhere in the area around 70th and Holdrege.

Need Urgent

Calling the need for a public pool "urgent" Shirk urged inclusion of the item in this year's budget — not a year from now, as recommended by the Parks and Recreation Board.

Two weeks ago the residents presented their request to the board, which channeled the request to a subcommittee for further study and possible inclusion in the 1973-74 budget.

On a related item, several citizens requested more money be included for additional recreational facilities, particularly for an addition to the Arnold Heights Recreation Center.

Job Classification

The City Employes Association (CEA), represented by Charles Noren, requested that $10,000 be included in the budget for a comprehensive job classification study. In addition, Noren requested the city increase its contribution to employe pension plans on a level equal to its contribution to Lincoln Electric System (LES) workers.

Citing the Public Administration Service Study which noted that differing benefits between LES and city employes is a "continuing irritant," Noren requested the city raise its contribution to city employe pensions plans from a one-to-one basis to a two-to-one basis. If the increase in benefits were to go into effect March 1, Noren said the total cost to the city would be $55,000 or $30,000 if a June 1 date were decided upon.

The council also heard a plea for inclusion of $64,000 for the police helicopter, funds for jail modifications and additional money for operation of the chemical dependency unit at Lincoln General Hospital.

Aging Project

James Zeitlow, of the Lincoln Areawide Model Project on Aging, also appealed for additional funds to expand his program and citizens living along 68th from Adams to Fremont requested better maintenance of a problem-causing drainage ditch in their area.

The council is scheduled to meet Thursday to discuss and possibly set the final budget for fiscal 1972-73.

Demo Office Break-In Hit

. . . 'Indirectly Responsible'

Youngstown, Ohio (AP) — Sen. George McGovern Tuesday said President Nixon is "at least indirectly" responsible for the June 17 break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington.

He said the action "ought to disturb every American, because if the leadership of the President's campaign will snoop and invade and wiretap on the Democratic National Committee, what reason is there to believe it won't do that to the rest of us."

The Democratic presidential nominee's statement was his strongest to date on the incident in which five men, some with links with the Nixon campaign organization, were caught inside the Democratic offices in Washington's Watergate Hotel.

Campaign Check Traced

Since then, a $25,000 campaign check has been traced to the bank account of one of the arrested men, Bernard Barker.

At a news conference on the first day of a planned four-day Midwest campaign swing, McGovern referred to "wire tapping like Mr. Nixon's crew did."

Asked if that meant he held the President responsible for the break-in, he replied, "I lay it at least indirectly to him."

Nixon and Republican party officials have denied knowledge of the break-in.

McGovern said the $25,000 campaign check linked the arrested men "about as close as you can get to the Nixon management."

He said he believes it is "an open question" former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell quit as Nixon's campaign director because he requested it, as Mitchell said, or because of the bugging incident.

Touring Midwest

McGovern kicked off his Midwest tour with a traffic-stopping walk in a working class Youngstown neighborhood during which he chatted with unemployed steelworkers and donned a bracelet embossed with the name of an American said to be held as a prisoner-of-war.

He attended a fund raising luncheon, telling potential contributors he was pleased with the reception given him by the crowd on the tour, which police estimated at 2,000.

Before heading for Springfield, Ill., he delivered a pep talk to 200 members of the United Auto Workers at nearby Lordstown, where the union struck three weeks last spring at a General Motors Vega plant.

The Democratic presidential nominee spent a full hour handshaking his way along Youngstown's Market Street through a crowd estimated by police at 2,000 persons.

On Market Street, a four-lane thoroughfare, McGovern was met by a shirt-sleeved crowd that grew steadily during his walk, spilling off the sidewalks.

Traffic Is Halted

Police finally blocked off traffic and McGovern abandoned the sidewalks and strolled down the middle of the street.

At one point he accepted a metal bracelet embossed with the name of a Lt. Col. Robert Barnett, an Air Force pilot said to have been captured by the North Vietnamese October 3, 1967.

Bruce Zoldman, 23, a senior at Youngstown State University, said he had been wearing the bracelet when he met McGovern on the street. He said he asked the candidate if he had one and that McGovern said he didn't and would like one.

Zoldman then gave McGovern the bracelet.

McGovern has pledged to pull all U.S. troops out of Vietnam within 90 days of taking office and says he is convinced the enemy will release all American prisoners after that.

May Interrupt Tour

Before he left Washington Tuesday morning, McGovern said that he'd interrupt his Midwest tour and return to the Capitol if the Senate scheduled a vote Thursday on a bill to share federal tax revenues with state and local governments.

"I do think we have a financial crisis in the city's and the states all across this nation," the South Dakota senator said.

"There's no more important pending measure right now before the Senate than the passage of a good revenue sharing measure."

McGovern, who has been criticized by some Democratic mayors as weak on urban problems, has promised he will do all he can to secure passage of a revenue-sharing bill.

Federal Judge Dissolves Injunction Blocking Oil Pipeline Construction

Washington (AP) — A federal judge Tuesday dissolved the injunction which has blocked construction of an oil pipeline across Alaska for more than two years.

But environment groups whose opposition to the project had won the original stay said they would appeal immediately to a higher court.

District Judge George L. Hart Jr., who issued the injunction in April 1970 dissolved it Tuesday after rejecting every legal argument by the environment groups who had sought to have it continued.

Hart made it clear he was framing his decision to expedite the anticipated appeal and that he believes the pipeline question eventually will have to be settled in the U.S. Supreme Court.

The proposed trans-Alaska pipeline was one of the earliest tests of the National Environmental Policy Act passed in 1969 and signed into law on Jan. 1, 1970.

Then Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, was on the verge of issuing permits for construction of the pipeline from Arctic oil fields to a port in Southern Alaska when three environment groups sued the department to block the permits, alleging that Interior had not complied with the new law's requirement of a detailed study of environmental impacts.

These groups have argued also that the pipeline, its construction road, and related facilities would occupy far more land than the secretary was entitled to authorize under the 1920 Mineral Leasing Act.

For the past 28 months Hart's injunction has held up action on the pipeline while the Interior Department prepared and issued a first draft environmental impact statement, then held public hearings, and then, last March, issued a final impact statement.

After providing 45 days for additional public comment, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton announced last May that he has decided to issue the permits and allow construction of the pipeline once the legal hurdles are cleared.

On Monday and Tuesday the environment groups and their opponents returned to Hart's courtroom but this time Hart ruled against them on every point.

Dennis Flannery — representing the Wilderness Society, Environmental Defense Fund, and Friends of the Earth at first requested a stay of his decision.

But Justice Department lawyer Herbert Pittle, representing the Interior Department, said the department has not yet drafted the pipeline permits and could not, therefore, issue them immediately.

And a spokesman for the Aleyska Pipeline Service Co., the group of seven oil companies applying to build the pipeline, pledged that they would not begin construction activities before the appeals court can take action and would, in any case, give the environment groups at least 30 days notice before starting construction.

Prasch Urges High Priority For Calvert-Relief School

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools Supt. John Prasch said Tuesday he will recommend putting high priority on construction of a new elementary school to relieve crowded conditions at Calvert School.

The Board of Education is having plans drawn for two new elementary schools with the understanding that the single set of plans might be used for a Calvert-relief school and a new building in the Southwood area.

The district has been studying enrollment projections to determine which of the schools should be built first, and Prasch said Tuesday he believes relief for the Calvert area should take priority.

He identified a school site at 52nd and Claire as probable location for the building.

Prasch has not yet identified which of the sites in the Southwood area might be home for a new school there. The district owns one site in the Southwood Addition itself and another in an adjacent section on the east.

Enrollment projections indicate Calvert will be "in real trouble" soon, Prasch told the board. "We need to push for relief as soon as possible."

In related matters, Prasch said he would put the Calvert and Southwood buildings into a top construction priority listing for 1972-73, along with additions at Irving Junior High, Northeast High School and Lake View Elementary.

As a possible time schedule, he suggested a construction start on the Calvert-relief building in November, the Southwood building four or five months later, the Northeast addition next spring and the Irving addition in January.

Prasch said he was still studying the Lake View situation to assess the impact of the building boom in the West A area.

All of the plans he discussed Tuesday are preliminary. School board approval will be required at several steps in the planning for each new project.

At Irving, the schools are eyeing a cooperative venture with the City Parks and Recreation Dept. to add a gymnasium and recreation facilities and offices.

The gym would be used during the day by the junior high and at night by the recreation department. Part of the plan envisions closing South 20th Street between the school and Irving Park.

At Northeast High, a new gymnasium and science facilities would be added.

The Lake View addition would handle increasing elementary enrollment for a while, said Prasch, but he predicted the board may need to build an elementary school and possibly a junior high in West A area eventually.

Prasch said the projects he identified as high priorities can be built within the district's current building budget, financed by a four-mill levy on local property.

In related matters, Prasch said a committee is studying possible conversion of Everett Junior High into a community performing arts center. The building has been slated for closing, pending completion of additions at other junior high schools.

Building projects under construction now include an addition which will double the size of Goodrich Junior High in northwest Lincoln.

Other current projects include a new elementary school in northeast Lincoln, a driver education range at East High, new city-wide track facilities at East High and completion of a several-year remodeling project at the central administration building.

Kissinger Will Consult With Nguyen Van Thieu

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — Just back from a meeting with North Vietnamese representatives in Paris, presidential advisor Henry Kissinger left Washington Tuesday night for Saigon to consult with President Nguyen Van Thieu on efforts to reach a negotiated settlement. At about the same time, the North Vietnamese reported that their chief Paris negotiator who had met with Kissinger would return to Hanoi. (More On Page 3.)

Charge Stirs Controversy

Washington — The charge by Sargent Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, that President Nixon missed a chance to end the Vietnam war in 1969 set off a political storm in Washington, but the facts remain clouded and subject to many interpretations. Some former officials with no stake in the current political campaign probed their memories and hold that neither the White House nor its accusers have a monopoly on the truth. (Another Story On Page 2.)

New Exit Fees Imposed

Moscow — Jewish sources in Moscow report that the Soviet government imposed heavy new exit fees ranging from $5,000 to $25,000 on members of the educated Jewish elite who want to emigrate to Israel. The sources said the new system replaces the former flat fee of about $1,000. There was no official confirmation.

Fischer, Spassky Play To A Draw

Reykjavik — Challenger Bobby Fisher drew a game he should have lost and thus came a half-point closer to the world chess championship. When he and champion Boris Spassky ended their 14th game after the 40th move, the score stood 8½ to 5½ in Fisher's favor. (More On Page 37)

McGovern Rejects Invitation

Youngstown, Ohio — Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate, disclosed that he will pass up a White House invitation to be briefed on Vietnam by presidential advisor Henry Kissinger. Campaigning in Onio, the South Dakota Democrat said he did not mean to denigrate President Nixon's "generous" offer but found that such official White House briefings usually "go wide off the mark."

Rules Committee Quarreling

Miami Beach — Republican Party leaders drafting rule changes at the convention quarreled over alternative plans for allocating state delegations at future conventions. The ensuing political battle could go to the floor next week and influence the party's 1976 nomination.

'Planned Weakness' Repudiated

Miami Beach — Defense Secretary Laird urged Republican platform writers in Miami Beach to reject "policies of planned weakness, of white-flag waving, of begging and of abandonment of our nation's role in helping to maintain peace." His and other testimony before the resolutions committee of the Republican National Convention defended the president's defense, economic and social policies and set the tone for Republican counter-offensives in the coming election campaign.

O'Brien Claims New Evidence

Washington — Former Democratic Party Chairman Lawrence O'Brien contends that new evidence shows his national committee offices in Washington were "bugged" for some time before June 17, the date of mystery raid on the party headquarters. He also announced plans to take depositions on the matter from a number of men prominently tied to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Women, Children Attack Striking Longshoremen

London (UPI) — Women and children armed with sticks, stones and bottles Tuesday ambushed cars carrying striking longshoremen who were heading for a dock in eastern England not yet affected by Britain's 19-day-old ports shutdown. Strikers and police clashed elsewhere.

Police said the ambush occurred at the village of Garthorpe on the road to Scunthorpe, where police and militant strike pickets have clashed repeatedly in the past few days. The Scunthorpe workers are non-union.

A police spokesman said the women stood in the middle of the road, shouting and brandishing banners with slogans like "freedom from dockers!" and "Let our men work!"

Striker Jim Harrison said "they poked sticks through the windows and stoned not only my car but cars of my friends." David Leach, another striking docker, said "several stones were thrown. One hit my car. There were also bottles in the road."

Britain's 42,000 longshoremen shut down the country's main ports July 28 for an indefinite period in a walkout called to back demands for greater job security and the right to man container depots, even at inland points.

Pickets and police clashed at the small port of Richborough in Kent when strikers tried to stop a truck loaded with paper. At Colchester in Essex striking longshoremen stoned trucks and fought with police.

In Aberdeen, angered Scottish longshoremen refused to load vital supplies for the isolated Orkneys and Shetlands because fishing boats and other craft were running beer and cigarettes through the strike blockade into Britain's northernmost offshore islands.

The ban also affected supplies to oil rigs in the North Sea, many of which have American crews.

Longshoremen in the Northern Ireland capital of Belfast joined Britain's nationwide seaports shutdown as it entered its 19th day. They refused to handle any cargoes to and from Britain, including container trucks which have been moving loads in both directions through the strike blockade.

In England busloads of militant strike pickets from London and Liverpool roared into small seaports not yet hit by the shutdown and proclaimed a blockade on them. These ports are mainly worked by non-union dockers.

Prospects of a settlement now appeared to depend on a conference of longshoremen's delegates called by the transport union for Wednesday.

Jack Jones, transport union chief, said if the delegates accepted a new package he planned to present to them, the walkout could end by Monday.

However, longshoremen's leaders said militants might keep it going as a wildcat strike in London, Hull and Liverpool.

Plane Crashes; Five Are Killed

Brownsburg, Ind. (UPI) — A high school aerospace teacher, his wife and their three sons were killed Tuesday when their rented small plane crashed in heavy fog at the edge of this town in the northwest suburbs of Indianapolis.

The victims were identified as Robert Bruce Reski, 37, Indianapolis teacher since 1968 in Ben Davis High School; his wife, Ruby, 37, and their sons, Cole, 15, Paul, 12, and Adam, 9.

Well-Entrenched Troops Repel Commando Attack

Saigon (AP) — Enemy commandos charged a South Vietnamese marine position on the southern fringe of Quang Tri before daybreak Tuesday and were beaten back with almost one quarter of their number killed field reports said.

The well-entrenched mariens killed 21 of the enemy while suffering one man wounded, Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel reported from the northern front.

The marines are making slow progress through heavy resistance as they close on the Quang Tri Citadel.

The South Vietnamese command's latest 24-hour figues on the whole northern campaign listed 169 enemy killed at a cost of 19 government dead and 77 wounded.

U.S. B52 bombers dropped more than 200 tons of explosives on six locations within a dozen miles of Quang Tri, the provincial capital that fell to the North Vietnamese on May 1.

Enemy shell fire continued to rain on the marine siege force.

Military spokesmen said the marines killed 24 enemy and captured two at a cost of five men killed in two contacts within a mile of the city. They also found the bodies of 38 killed by Vietnamese air force jets 700 yards from the Citadel wall.

North Vietnamese gunners shot down five U.S. fighter-bombers over the north Tuesday, the Viet Cong radio claimed. Quoting Radio Hanoi, the broadcast did not mention the fate of any airmen aboard the planes. There was no comment from the U.S. Command.

Laird Urges McGovern To Look At Achievements

World News

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird advised Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern Tuesday to "open your eyes" to President Nixon's achievements in changing U.S. policy in South Vietnam and around the world.

While the Republicans' clockwork convention preparations ticked along in Miami Beach, McGovern hunted votes in Youngstown, Ohio, on a four-day Midwest campaign stint. He also received as expected the endorsement of the huge United Auto Workers union.

A procession of Cabinet members, advisers and supporters extolled the Nixon record at GOP platform hearings in Miami Beach.

"Wherever you look in the world today, one would have to have his eyes shut not to see the great changes made by this administration," said Laird.

There was controversy in the Republican Rules Committee over the apportionment of delegates to the 1976 GOP convention.

That panel also is considering proposed, and disputed, reforms to broaden the participation of minorities, women and young people in future national conventions.

And Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., the liberal from California, demanded in every forum available that the Republicans make room for dissenting spokesmen in their preparations and at the convention itself.

But those were only ripples in the placid buildup for a convention opening next Monday.

At the platform hearings, Laird, Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz, Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson, and Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney spoke in predictably unanimous praise of the administration.

Laird was told that McGovern had said the U.S. situation in Indochina now is no better than it was when Nixon took ofice.

The defense secretary replied with a recital of statistics on troop withdrawals, reduced costs, and casualty lists down from 300 a week to three.

"I would say to that person 'open your eyes, look at America, look at the world in which we live, the situation has indeed changed,'" Laird said.

Laird made a point of pronouncing defense and national security to be above partisanship, then challenged McGovern on the issue without naming him.

He said the GOP platform should reject "policies of planned weakness, of white-flag waving, of begging and of abandonment of our nation's role in helping to maintain peace."

He said a $30-billion cut in defense spending, as proposed by McGovern, would force cuts in the pay of servicemen. "To those who want cuts I would say, the only place they can come is in salaries," Laird said.

Later, at a news conference, Laird said McGovern is "now waffling, he is now on the teeter-totter" on the issue of defense spending.

Nixon was at his Camp David retreat in Thurmont, Md. The White House said the President will fly to Chicago after his renomination to address the American Legion on Aug. 24.

McGovern is to address the Legion convention a day earlier.

Sargent Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, was campaigning in Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco Tuesday.

McGovern picked up some important but expected support from the United Auto Workers union, which voted overwhelmingly to support his campaign.

According to UAW officials in Detroit, 84 per cent of the nearly 4,555 membership representatives voted to endorse the Democratic candidate.

The independent union acted in the face of a refusal by so-called organized labor — the AFL-CIO — to endorse any presidential nominee this year.

But the UAW action was no surprise since its president, Leonard Woodcock was already listed privately as a McGovern supporter.

Woodcock added Tuesday that the UAW Community Action Program is expected to raise up to $400,000 for Democratic candidates. He did not say how much of this would be channeled directly to the McGovern effort.

Laird said Vietnam policy is an issue that will help Nixon in the campaign ahead. "I think that progress toward peace is going to be a major plus for President Nixon," he said.

Shultz said the economy should be an issue, too. He said there has been a record increase in employment, that output and earnings are up, and that the rate of inflation has been halved.

Democratic proposals, he said, "add up to gigantic extra spending which must mean gigantic extra taxes."

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, joined the Republican attack, contending that the figures disprove claims from the McGovern camp that the economic is undergoing no more than "a mini-recovery."

"A little examination shows there is no basis for this label," he said.

Romney said he intends to do everything he can to help re-elect Nixon, whether or not he remains in the Cabinet.

He said he has no feud with the White House, and is considering leaving the Department of Housing and Urban Development only because he thinks he might be more useful in private life.

Romney had been reported miffed at John D. Ehrlichman, a top White House staffer. These accounts said Romney felt Ehrlichman had denied him access to Nixon himself.

"There isn't any feud," said Romney. He had lunch with Ehrlichman, who came to Miami Beach as part of the White House advance guard for the convention next week.

More Troop Cuts To Be Announced

Saigon (AP) — President Nixon has ordered a fresh round of American troop cuts from Vietnam beginning after Sept. 1 and will make an official announcement within the next two weeks, U.S. sources disclosed Wednesday.

Kissinger Heads For Saigon; Le Duc Tho Heads For Hanoi

Washington (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and the North Vietnamese he has been meeting with secretly in Paris, Le Duc Tho, are heading for South and North Vietnam respectively.

The White House announced Tuesday that Kissinger is flying to Saigon for two days of talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu on the Vietnam war and negotiations for peace.

In Paris, a spokesman for the Viet Cong peace delegation confirmed that Le Duc Tho will leave Wednesday for Hanoi. He acts as special adviser to the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris.

The spokesman, Ly Van Sau, would make no further comment on Tho's trip but observers in Paris immediately connected it with Kissinger's mission and with the future of Thieu.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Kissinger will arrive in South Vietnam late Wednesday Saigon time, leave late Friday, and report back to President Nixon this weekend before the Republican National Convention opens in Miami Beach on Monday.

The much-traveled Kissinger has been in Switzerland visiting his parents after a secret session with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris last Monday.

'General Review'

Ziegler said Kissinger is making his first trip to Saigon since July, 1971, for "a general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem, including the negotiations in Paris."

Kissinger is slated to confer with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, in addition to Thieu.

Ziegler cautioned against speculating about a breakthrough in the stalled Paris talks. He said Kissinger's journey had been under consideration for several weeks, and that the timing had a lot to do with the presidential adviser's own schedule.

However, Nixon is to make another Vietnam troop announcement before Sept. 1, when remaining U.S. forces in South Vietnam will be down to 39,000. Also, the Paris negotiations loom as a prominent item as the U.S. presidential campaign swings into high gear.

Thieu has been urging the United States to keep up its bombing of North Vietnam and to hold to the allied terms for an Indochina ceasefire. So far, the administration has said it stands by these terms as set forth by Nixon May 8.

But Hanoi has continued to call publicly for an ouster of the Thieu regime, a demand presumably repeated by negotiator Le Duc Tho in his secret sessions with Kissinger.

This spurred speculation, therefore, that Kissinger will be discussing with Thieu what revised formula for a political solution might be put forward at Paris.

Ziegler left as something of a mystery just where Kissinger might go from Saigon. He ruled out Hanoi or Paris, but refused to say whether Kissinger might stop elsewhere in the relatively short interval between his Saigon take off and his scheduled return to the United States sometime this weekend.

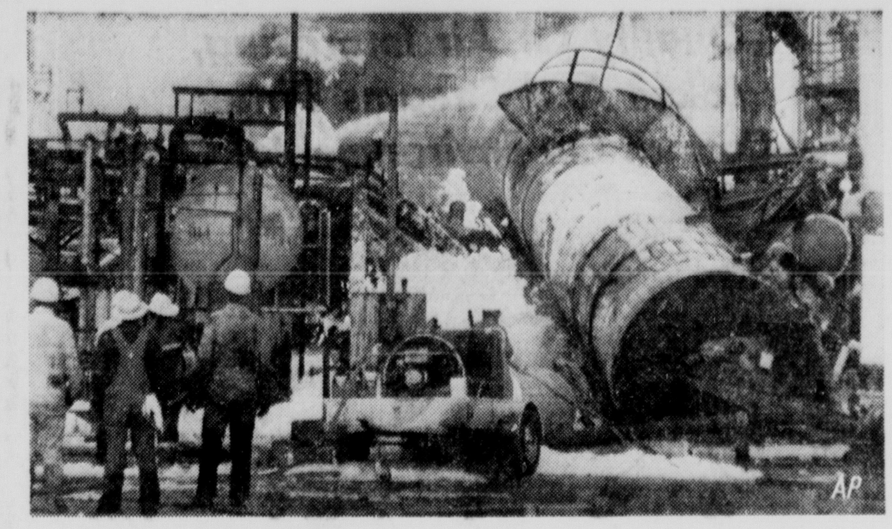

Direct Communication

Nixon, who was at Camp David, was in direct communication with Kissinger before the national security adviser's departure from Europe, a White House spokesman said.

In a Vietnam-related announcement, the State Department said Nixon has ordered $15 million in additional U.S. aid to South Vietnamese refugee victims of the enemy offensive begun last March.

The Agency for International Development (AID) said more than 900,000 South Vietnamese — mostly women, children and the elderly — have been forced to flee their homes.

Total extra emergency aid for South Vietnam's refugees was estimated at more than $70 million this fiscal year, in addition to $25 million in U.S. refugee assistance planned before the enemy offensive.

Auto Sales Are Up During 10-Day Period

©The New York Times

Detroit — The United States auto companies, heading into the final weeks of the 1972 model year, sold 196,166 cars in the Aug. 1-10 period, up about 42,000 units from the same period in 1971 when deliveries totaled 154,871 units.

With nine selling days this year versus eight last year, the daily rate totaled 21,796, an increase of 12.6% from 19,359 in the first 10 days of August a year ago.

Industry sales were below the record for the period, a daily rate of 23,324 set in Aug. 1-10, 1965.

However, all manufacturers reported sales increases this month, even though some are reporting shortages in some car lines.

Ward's Automotive Reports placed industry unit stocks on July 31 at 1,393,000 cars, or 189,000 below a year ago.

$400 Million Excess Paid Medicare–Aspin

Washington (AP) — The federal government has paid nearly $400 million in excess Medicare claims to hospitals since 1967, Rep. Les Aspin said Tuesday.

"These overpayments are the fault of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and its contractors such as Blue Cross—not the hospitals themselves," the Wisconsin Democrat said in a statement.

"Federal funds have been used to pay for private-duty nurses, TV sets, and telephone service for Medicare patients — all illegal under federal law," he said.

Aspin based his allegation on a recent Government Accounting Office survey of 14 hospitals in five states which he said showed "nearly $500,000 had been illegally charged to Medicare out of a total $20 million paid in claims."

'Common'

GAO officials reported the overcharges found in the sample "were common in other hospitals," Aspin said.

"If HEW and Blue Cross administer the whole Medicare program as indicated by the sample GAO report, then the federal government has been gypped out of approximately $380 million," Aspin said.

The reason for the overcharges, he added, is "pervasive mismanagement, administrative procedures and incomplete audits by HEW and private insurance companies such as Blue Cross.

'Overcomplicated'

"The HEW regulations are overcomplicated in some instances, and in other cases needed regulations are nonexistent."

Blue Cross and other private insurance companies supervise the audit and payment of Medicare funds to hospitals.

Aspin urged HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson to "tighten up and simplify the regulations so that the proper benefits are paid to the needy and that hospitals are not inadvertently over-compensated for their services."

He said HEW has not prescribed regulations to prevent hospitals from collecting doctor fees that are higher than normal. In addition, he said, the complicated regulations have permitted some hospitals to be paid twice for fringe benefits provided by resident doctors.

House OKs 392-0 $1.6 Billion In Flood Relief; 'Fraud' Warned

Washington (UPI) — The House unanimously voted $1.6 billion in disaster relief for victims of tropical storm Agnes Tuesday despite warnings much of the money may be wasted on fraudulent claims.

The emergency appropriation, passed 392 to 0 and sent to the Senate, includes $1.3 billion for low-interest loans to an estimated 115,000 homeowners and 6,000 businessmen whose property was damaged in flood waters from the June storm in what members called the worst natural disaster in U.S. history.

The bill also carried $200 million for temporary housing, unemployment compensation and free food coupons for flood victims, plus additional millions to rebuild streets and aid in emergency work on flood control projects.

The loans will be made under newly liberalized provisions, finally approved by Congress Monday in a separate bill, with an interest charge of only 1% and with the first $5,000 of the loan to be forgiven.

Rep. James C. Corman, D-Calif., told the House that experience after the 1971 California earthquake demonstrated that the loan forgiveness feature -- which under earlier law at that time applied only to the first $2,500 of the loan — was an "invitation to fraud."

"And that is how it will be used," Corman forecast. "The little old lady whose house was washed down the river will not get help because she can't repay the loan. But somebody with a stain on his rug will get a loan he does not have to repay."

Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif., also told the House of abuse of the loan clause in the aftermath of the California earthquake. He said there were many cases where those seriously hit got no help, while "whole neighborhoods" of those with minor damage took advantage of the forgiveness feature to get free repairs.

But emphasis in the House debate was on the severity of the damage in Agnes, which devastated northeastern states, and on demands for fast government action, with a minimum of red tape, to get relief to the victims.

Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., whose district includes hard-hit Wilkes-Barre, told the House damage in his district alone will run to $1 billion, and that the total in the six states affected would approximate $5 billion.

He said his people appreciate what is being done, but that more will be needed. And he said the Agnes disaster brings home the necessity for a permanent disaster fund, ready for use when needed without congressional action.

"We were not prepared for this one," Flood said.

The emergency bill carries all the money requested by President Nixon plus $17.5 million added by the House Appropriations Committee for extra flood control work.

It is in addition to $200 million appropriated by Congress earlier for disaster relief for Agnes victims and supplements the $172.5 million included in the regular budget for disaster relief.

Although geared mainly to the Agnes disaster, the funds actually can be spent for disaster relief anywhere, including the Rapid City area of South Dakota, hit by floods in the spring.

Payments Balance Improvement, Production Hike Cheers Nixonites

Washington (AP) — A marked second-quarter improvement in the U.S. balance of payments and a moderate July increase in industrial production cheered Nixon administration economists Tuesday.

The Commerce Department reported a sharp drop in the balance-of-payments deficit for the April-June quarter while the Federal Reserve Board said July output of factories, mines and utilities rose 0.3% in comparison with June.

The June increase was put at 0.1% over May, a revision from earlier estimates of a 0.3% gain.

The board said the output gains in each month were depressed by the devastating Eastern floods caused by Tropical Storm Agnes.

Production of automobiles remained at the June rate of 8.5 million units a year and production of consumer goods was unchanged.

There were increases in the output of carpeting and furniture, defense equipment, construction products, iron and steel and textiles and chemical material.

The board said there was a decline in the output of household appliances while production of business equipment remained stable.

The index stood at 113.6% of the 1967 average, 6% higher than a year earlier.

The Commerce Department's report on the second-quarter balance of payments showed improvement on both key measures of the dollar outflow.

One measurement, the official-reserves-transactions basis, the deficit was $831 million, an improvement of $2.5 billion from the $3.3 billion deficit recorded in the first three months of the year.

The official balance takes into account transactions with foreign central banks and governments as well as private dollar outflows.

The other measure of the deficit, the net-liquidity balance, which measures transactions with most foreigners, was $2.3 billion in the red. In the first three months of the year the deficit by this measurement was $3.1 billion.

Kremlin Has Proposed Arab-Soviet Meeting

Moscow (UPI) — The Kremlin has proposed the convocation of an Arab-Soviet meeting "at the working level" to discuss the current delicate state of relations between Cairo and Moscow, eastern diplomatic sources said Tuesday.

The meeting is to be of purely tentative character, the sources said. It will discuss the background of Egypt's ouster of Soviet advisors with resultant deterioration of Soviet-Egyptian relations and consider possible measures for improving the once-cordial ties between the two countries.

Reports from Arab capitals that Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev has personally written to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt proposing a summit conference could not be confirmed here.

Instead, according to the sources, the Kremlin has suggested a lower and working-level meeting to review what appears to have gone wrong between the two countries still bound by a treaty of friendship.

Such a meeting, if successful, could conceivably lead to a top-level conference, the diplomats said.

As far as could be ascertained here, although there are constant diplomatic exchanges between Moscow and Cairo, the "working-level" meeting suggested by the Soviet Union has not yet occurred.

In the meantime the Soviets are maintaining a remarkably low public profile concerning the difficulties that have arisen between the two countries.

The Soviet media have confined themselves to a terse announcement a few weeks ago to the effect that the Soviet advisers in Egypt "having fulfilled their mission" are returning home "by joint agreement."

None of the critical remarks about the Soviet Union made by the Egyptian press, official spokesmen or by Sadat himself have been reported here.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Perhaps it is a mature judgment the City Council has made on the matter of fireworks — outlawing pop-bottle rockets and skyrockets and fixing legal responsibility for shooting of all fireworks. Yet, you wonder if it is not the typical kind of decision in which adults get a little carried away with their own sense of responsibility.

If we eliminated everything in this world that was a potential danger, life would be far different than it is. Certainly, we would have no automobiles and maybe no automatic furnaces and air-conditioners.

Wisely, the council did leave other fireworks in the legal category and the time limits imposed on shooting them seem to be perfectly reasonable. But in outlawing pop-bottle rockets, the council did away with the one thing that was both cheap and fun.

For a few dollars you could get a big supply of pop-bottle rockets but other fireworks are very expensive. The kids will not have the money to buy other fireworks in substitution for the popular pop-bottle rockets. Thus, once again we have put some artificial limits upon the freedom of people to enjoy themselves.

We have now done the same thing with hitch-hikers, by virtue of a Police Department decision to crack down on those who travel by their thumbs. Obviously, a good case can be made against hitch-hiking but a good case can be made against almost anything if you want to do so.

The thing is that we constantly seem to tighten the rope around ourselves, to impose one law after another upon ourselves until we can hardly move without committing some kind of violation.

Somehow, we think back in the context of what we have just said to the article by Gordon Winters that appeared on the front page of the Monday morning Star. It was an article on the life style of a Nebraska farm family. It presented rural life in the words of a family who live such a life.

This farm wife explained her liking for living in the country when she said that "you have a freedom in the country that you don't have in town. It's privacy, I guess."

The father said that "there seems to be a certain amount of pressure on individuality in the city . . . I think a rural environment has an influence on individuality. I think a rural environment has an influence on initiative.

"I think that to be a stable individual in our society, you have to have some concept of who you are and what you are and why you are.

"It seems to me that people — I hesitate to say anything for fear I'm prejudiced — who live close to nature understand the basics of life, God's creation and the purpose of life."

That, in our own mind, is the appeal of rural life — its demands upon the individual. It is a demand because freedom is a demand but it is in answering the challenge to your own individuality and ability that you find satisfaction in life.

In what these farm parents have said, you can easily see why so many Americans spend their vacations as they do — in the nation's parks, along its streams and lakes and in all its natural areas. It is easy to understand why there are growing numbers of campers on the highways and an amazing increase in the ownership of boats.

These activities represent not only a change but an escape from conventionality, a getting away from the restrictions with which most of us live in closely knit and inter-dependent city living. Such escape gives us at least a momentary opportunity to live as we please, to make our own decisions, to test our mettle.

In an urban setting, we find our daily lives more and more restricted and the trend shows no signs of letting up. There is even the right and wrong way of disposing of your garbage and, take the wrong way and you have nothing but trouble.

Government, at all levels, that continues to infringe upon the daily lives of people rather than tending to the real needs of people is the major author of our restrictions. It would be welcome now and then if the government simply decided to let people do as they pleased, even if they did something now and then that wasn't good for them.

Lincoln Courts Too Lenient?

The handling of drunken drivers by the courts in Omaha and Lincoln has been the subject of controversy and comment in both cities of late. If any comparison between the approaches used in the two cities can be made, it is that Lincoln's clearly is the more imaginative program more likely to produce the desired results — to get the drinking driver off the streets. Or at the very least, to reduce the number of traffic accidents attributable in some respect to alcohol.

Lincoln has used federal financial resources available to the community to establish a comprehensive drunk driving program in which rehabilitation, rather than penalty, may play the key part. The Lincoln program allows convicted drunk drivers a probationary period involving mandatory classes, counseling, possible medical treatment and restricted driving privileges, although not all violators are in the program. Omaha does not rely nearly as heavily on probation as an alternative course of action.

But, as in Omaha, where many in the community feel that the courts are not tough enough on drinking drivers — even though probation is eschewed, there are those in Lincoln who think the courts here are too lenient. Indeed, Lincoln police officers have testified before a legislative traffic safety committee against the Lincoln program.

The major points of controversy apparently are that under the probationary program, the conviction for drunk driving is not recorded with the Motor Vehicles Department — or elsewhere — so that repeaters are actually treated as first offenders and that points are not assessed against the probationer's drivers license.

But such "penalties", those familiar with the Lincoln program agree, are not compatible with the probation philosophy. Restricted driving privileges and the opportunity to keep his record intact are regarded as incentives for a violator to profit from the probation program by understanding his drinking problem and, hopefully, by shaking it.

The arguments used by Lincoln municipal court judges, probation officers and attorneys who have represented clients in the program are supported by the statistics gathered thus far. A very small percentage of those who have successfully completed probation have gone on to a second drunk driving offense, as compared with the recidivism rate for all offenses. The recidivism rate for those who complete probation is also much lower than for those who are charged with a second offense during their probationary period.

Perhaps more time is needed in which to accurately evaluate the success of the Lincoln program. But the experts agree that thus far the program seems to be working.

Board Seats Filled

Mayor Schwartzkopf Tuesday finally named the three members of the Police Board of Examiners which he created in June to serve as a fact-finding panel in the investigation of citizen complaints against Lincoln Police Department personnel. The board of examiners will supplement the activities of the police department's Internal Affairs Office, which was established by the mayor earlier in the year.

It was at the suggestion of the Human Rights Commission and other forces in the community that the mayor hesitantly decided to create a review panel comprised in part of citizen members. He had preferred instead to vest complaint investigating responsibilities completely in the internal affairs office. In establishing a board comprised of an attorney, a layman and a police officer, the mayor did not go as far in creating a citizen-type review board as many had wanted. And he has taken his time in filling the seats.

But the mayor has run true to form in one respect. When he does make appointments to city boards or commissions, they are generally excellent ones. And Schwartzkopf's appointments of attorney John R. Doyle, businessman Arthur J. Weaver and Lincoln Police Inspector Robert Sawdon are not exceptions to that rule. The three new members should give him the combination of common sense, rational judgment and expertise the mayor expects.

It's hoped, of course, that the board of examiners will have little work to do. Professionalism on the part of the police should take care of that. But if legitimate complaints against police personnel do arise, a framework has been set up to give some assurance they will be fairly disposed of.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by the writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Food Wasted

Omaha, Neb.

Every now and then an editor will take a dig at "extremists," as he calls them. He says they are against chemicals and commercial fertilizers. Since his publication is full of such ads, he knows which side his bread is buttered on.

If he doens't care for natural living, that is his business. But I wonder if he really believes we will starve if we don't raise bigger crops and develop our cattle, etc. faster. Those dogs and cats that now eat over one billion dollars worth of food wouldn't be around if we were going hungry. And how about the horses that are used for pleasure only?

The editors should ride on a garbage truck some time and see the food that is wasted. Doctors tell us we would be healthier if we pushed back from the table before we stuffed ourselves. And think of the money we would save, not only on food but hospital, doctor and drug bills. We are too well fed but undernourished.

Political Notes

Blair, Neb.

It wouldn't take a political pundit or a professional fortune teller to predict that Nebraskans will declare a temporary moratorium on the good neighbor policy as they trek to the polls to cast their overwhelming vote against Senator McGovern for president. This is Nixon Country. The question can be only the margin of victory for Mr. Nixon.

Nebraska Democrats would be well advised with their paper organization and if they are really serious about doing something which would serve the best interests of the state, the area and the nation to concentrate their energies on the race to remove the stranglehold that Nebraska republican aspirants to the Senate have on the electorate. A change is possible in this arena this time.

Normally Nebraska Democrats would have a prayerful chance in the congressional races in the First and Second Districts. This time around, the first-term incumbents in these two congressional districts have lived up to most of their promises and will be hard to dislodge.

Governor Exon should think in terms of his own re-election two years hence and bypass the offer being extended to him to head up the Nebraska campaign for Mr. McGovern. Mrs. Maxine Morisson is more than qualified to lead this effort, wasted as it will be.

This is not to suggest that the hopes of Senator McGovern nationally will necessarily follow the Nebraska Nixon preoccupation.

Draft HST

Lincoln, Neb.

Congratulations to McGovern. He finally roped someone in to be his partner. If he had asked me, I could have matched him without hunting weeks for a partner. I think two people who think the same and play right into the hands of the big liars of North Vietnam would be good political company and should run on the same ticket. This would be McGovern and this anti-American gal for president and vice president.

I am over 70 and have seen many politicians and heard many phony promises—all the things they say they will do for the public—phew! phew! You can fool the kids but not those of us who have been around a long time.

We hear so much bunk from both Democrats and Republicans that we have to laugh. McGovern shouldn't pull that bunk that he is for unions and wants to help them. He is not now nor ever has been for unions. It's just a put-on, hoping to be elected. I know several good union members who are not voting for McGovern.

McGovern keeps shouting what he will do if he is elected. He should remember that there is a House and Senate to tell the president what to do. He keeps shouting for President Nixon to meet him in debate. If I were Nixon, I would laugh at him. If he can't elect himself, why does he expect another man to help him?

Even if he is past 80 years of age, the Democrats should call Harry Truman back and elect him. He stood on his own feet. He would have told the Chinese and North Viet Cong if they wanted to talk with him, they would have to come over here, as he would not get on his knees and beg.

In none of his talks have I ever seen where McGovern condemns or defies the communists. I am a World War I honorably discharged veteran. I am proud of my Army service. I hate the communists. What about McGovern?

Enough Fighting

Lincoln, Neb.

I am concerned about what the world is coming to. It really makes a person wonder when the second generation comes up to a white person and makes a remark about a relative's being black. Could it be because of poor manners taught in the home?

This doesn't pertain to just one family and not just in the state of Nebraska, but all over it is likewise.

I feel there is enough fighting overseas, without fighting going on among relatives and friends, along with blacks and whites.

Dynamite Your Perennial Border

In response to many inquiries from women who have been putting things off this year, we will now explain how to weed a perennial border in August.

The first step, of course, is to make sure that you can tell the perennial border from the annual border, and since both types are likely to be dense with weeds if you have put off the weeding until August, this is not going to be easy. One way is to telephone a professional gardener and ask him to come by the house. This can be expensive, but it will be money well spent if, after looking around, he discovers that you don't have a perennial border.

Another way is to guess. For this purpose, it will give you an edge if you know what a perrennial is. There is no difficulty telling what a border is. It is the area where the crab-grass abruptly gives way to a dank, steaming growth of weeds.

Hidden down in the weeds, looking terrified, will be your perennials. There are doubtless some among us here today who do not march to the pulsing beat of Mother Nature. For their benefit, so that they may leave us at once and move on to news of debentures and bloodshed, let us explain that perennials are flowers. Glorious, cascading blooms of brilliant color — at least in theory.

A good time to weed — that is to say, if you have any hope of seeing theory bloom into fact —is in the spring. Many people neglect this vital spring weeding because it is very hard at that season to tell the tiny little perennials from the tiny little weeds. Or because they can think of dozens of things that are more interesting to do than plucking tiny little weeds out of the mud. Or because they can't think of anything else to do that seems interesting but don't feel like weeding either.

We do not want to be harsh on these people. There is logic in their position. By waiting until late June, they will easily be able to distinguish the weeds from the flowers. The weeds will be the large menacing plants which have the bugs terrified.

The trouble is that June is much too pleasant a season for such drudgery as weeding, and July is far too hot. Thus those who missed the spring weeding often find that by August, their weeds have become arrogant.

It is said that some weeds in a long-neglected perennial border can strangle a Japanese bettle in midflight. There are stories, and you can believe them or not, of weeds from perennial borders that have stalked —or perhaps, stemmed — right into the house and refused to be put out until all television stations had shut down for the night.

Well, these horror stories needn't scare us if we get right down to the job at once. How shall we go about it?

With a firm stride, walk straight up to the perennial border and, parting the weeds, look to see whether there are any perennials still surviving. Since most of us are born unlucky, there will almost certainly be a few survivors which, of course, it would be poor gardenship to destroy. This means that the easy way out — dynamite — is foreclosed.

"Dynamite?" You may ask, unless you have gardened in August in years past. In that case you will recall how the baking action of the sun after heavy summer rain leaves the soil the consistency of concrete.

Getting a well-developed weed out of its hostile grip is toil for sturdy backs, particularly since the average well-developed weed has roots like steel cables. If, therefore, you determine that there are still flowers in your perennial border — anything that has been maimed by pests, particularly by slugs, is almost certainly a flower — if you are stuck with flowers that cannot be blown up, you have a problem.

One solution is to soak the perennial border thoroughly until the earth turns from concrete into mud, making it relatively — mind you only relatively — easier to pull the weeds by hand.

There are two ways to soak a perennial border. It can be done artificially by attaching a sprinkler to a water outlet and watering for two days.

But the more sensible way is to let nature do the watering for you. Simply wait for a good two-day rain, and when it lets up, start pulling. The beauty of this method is that two-day rains are extremely rare in August. Hence, there is little likelihood that you will do permanent injury to back, hands, or knees while laboring in a depressing and muddy morass.

Sound as this method is, the method we recommend most highly involves even more complete reliance upon nature. Simply stay away from the perennial border until a cold day occurs next February when — will nature's miracle never cease! — All the weeds will be dead.

Some people are so impatient that they cannot wait for nature. Before lunging into the weeds and damaging themselves, these people should go into the house, pour a cool drink and, while stirring, reflect that, after all, they haven't read the "Meditations" of Marcus Aurelius yet either.

The Settled-Down Singles Are Invading The Suburbs

WASHINGTON —The term, "swinging singles," suggests perpetual motion — a herd of unmarried hedonists dashing from one party to another and changing addresses almost as often as clothes. Enter now the settled-down single who lives, of all places, in the suburbs. Some of this relatively sedate new breed have gone so far as to buy a house or a condominum.

The singles-to-suburbia trend is unmistakable in the rapidly growing Washington metropolitan area. According to U.S. Census data, the number of divorced and single people living in the capital's suburbs increased by 92.8% between 1960 and 1970. In the same period, the singles population of the country as a whole rose by only 38.7%.

Fear of crime, especially on the part of unmarried women, is one reason for the exodus from the city. But economic considerations may well be controlling. The cost of housing tends to vary inversely with its distance from the central city.

Single people usually have felt uncomfortable in the suburbs, which are populated mainly by married couples preoccupied with the upbringing of their children. But now that singles have established a beachhead, more are sure to follow. In addition, suburbia now offers many of the attractions once found only in downtown areas — theaters, night clubs, sports arenas and the like.

A single person considering a move out of the city probably would be better off in an established community than in one of the "new towns" springing up in various parts of the country. The following complaint recently was voiced about Columbia, Md., a new town situated between Washington and Baltimore: "Lord, it's death warmed over for the young single adult. Everyone's out there being a family or a neighborhood. There's not much for us to do — no place for us to go."

A growing but undetermined number of singles have discovered the practical and intangible benefits of home-ownership. Of primary importance is the fact that mortgage interest and property taxes are deductible items on federal tax returns. And the low-key pleasures of a place of one's own provide satisfaction, too. "I doubt seriously I could ever go back to an apartment," says Marilyn King of Springfield, Va. "I've grown accustomed to the garden in the summer and the fireplace in the winter."

Commercial lenders have helped by making mortgage money available to single people, who traditionally have been regarded as poor credit risks.

Singles - only developments, formerly found only in or close to big cities, are beginning to invade the far reaches of suburbia. A leading example is International Village, a large apartment complex in Schaumburg, Ill., 30 miles northwest of Chicago. A recent visitor from Saturday Review called it "a return-to-the college dorm, complete with eager organizers — a giant fraternity party with unsanctioned panty raids." It all seems like an exercise in 1950's nostalgia — and that could well be the secret of its appeal.

McGovern 'Nice Guy' Trait Help, Hindrance; Hope Is To Repeat Truman's 1948 Comeback

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — On the road, the McGovern campaign is informal and good-natured. Despite all his troubles and his talk of the "new politics," McGovern himself seems confident and a little old-fashioned, like an itinerant frontier preacher on the old chautauqua circuit.

Except for the jet plane full of reporters and the eggs benedict and champagne breakfasts provided by the airlines, McGovern might be running for the House or Senate in South Dakota. He is still walking the streets and introducing himself to the voters as if they had never heard of him (many of them haven't), and while his staff hands out "prepared remarks" in advance, usually he just talks informally from the stage as if he were visiting with a friend.

The mood in his improvised headquarters on the tour is the same. The system demands that he have Secret Service officers on guard, but his security in the streets is non-existent, and in the hotels, while his corridor is blocked by the police, he is not isolated, but lives and works and eats with his wife and staff in an atmosphere of amiable confusion.

This "nice guy" quality is both his strength and weakness. When he talks about ending the war and the unemployment, he is so obviously sincere that he gets the attention and sympathy of his audiences, and once he gets their sympathy, he reacts quickly with conviction and occasionally with eloquence, but this is also his problem.

For when he finishes and you talk to the people on the edge of the crowd, it is surprising how many of them say he is almost "too nice," too considerate of the people out of work and on welfare, too sympathetic to the young, and too trusting and idealistic about the possibilities of peace and reconciliation in this violent and cynical age.

McGovern is very conscious of this reaction, which one heard all over New England. He knows that the working people are essential to his campaign, and that they resent his suggestions of larger guarantees to the unemployed. Accordingly he is now shifting his emphasis from guaranteed annual wages (though he observes that President Nixon has accepted the same principle) to "guaranteed jobs," even if the federal government has to provide them.

He knows he's in trouble at the moment with these arguments on welfare, unemployment, "peace in 90 days," and massive cuts in the defense budget, "but wait till the 10th of October," he says and there will be a big difference in the public recreation.

He does not believe the American people are cynical about the killing in Vietnam, even if our combat role has ended, and our casualties have dropped. He believes this is still a compassionate country that will respond to his appeals for peace, tax reform, full employment, generous treatment for the unemployed, reconciliation with the young and insurance for the old and the sick.

In short, he is saying that to go forward, we have to go back to some of the values and beliefs of an earlier America. He feels himself in touch with the highly moral leaders of the old reform movements of the past, who fought against too much involvement in the world and too many "special interests."

And the paradox of this is that President Nixon and Vice President Agnew are making this same appeal to what they call "Middle America"—only they are concentrating on the things in American life they want to preserve, while McGovern is concentrating on things he wants to change.

McGovern's hope is that he can repeat the astonishing come-back and victory of Harry Truman in the campaign of 1948, and his problem is that the economic condition of the people was much different in Truman's time.

In 1948, over 21% of the American people were making less than $3,000 a year (in terms of 1971 dollars), over 22% were making less than $5,000, whereas only 8.3% were under the $3,000 poverty level in 1971, and over 15% were making over $15,000 a year.

In short, Truman was appealing to a majority of the people who were comparatively poor, while McGovern, despite all the inequality he deplores, is campaigning in a country where the vast majority is living in comparatively comfortable circumstances.

Nevertheless, George McGovern is obviously the most confident man on his team. He is not persuaded either by the economic figures or the mathematics of the polls. He is listening now, he says, but after Labor Day and the World Series, the people will begin to listen to the arguments. And then, he insists, the situation will be entirely different.

Battle Erupts Between Colin And Head Of Colonial Homes

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Another battle erupted Tuesday between County Commissioner Robert Colin Sr. and Rex Earl, president of Colonial Homes which operates Lancaster Manor for the county.

Earl said he was appearing in response to a June 6 letter from Colin requesting that he (Earl) appear before the board to inform them why Lancaster Manor is " 'ordering, receiving, but not using government commodities.' "

Earl, who just returned from a month's vacation, said that in Colin's letter he also made reference to a Nov. 2, 1971, board meeting when Lancaster Manor was charged by Westview people with not using the commodities that were available but rather purchasing expensive, prepared and frozen foods.

"Again, it is quite obvious Mr. Colin's charges are irresponsible, unfounded and half-told," Earl said, noting that Colin alleged in his letter "that I stated in reply to the charge that 'Lancaster Manor could not afford to use government commodities even though they would be free and at no charge to the county.' "

Earl said that had Colin stated the whole context of his (Earl's) answer to the charges at the Nov. 2, 1971, meeting, "it would have been that we use prepared mixed and-or frozen foods when it is determined that it is more economical — more economical than a scratch preparation including cost of labor."

Earl submitted to the board a copy of a letter from the State Welfare Director which shows that the auditors from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food and Nutrition Service concluded that Lancaster Manor complied with the secretary's regulations and the terms of the State Agency Agreement for Institutions."

"It is again obvious that you Mr. Colin, had nothing but hearsay, if that much, as a basis for writing the June letter, but as usual, saw fit it that the press was informed of your charges."

At this point, Colin retorted "I don't operate the press, Mr. Earl."

Earl said he felt that the "charges" made by Colin are an example of what the Lancaster Manor study committee stated in its conclusion of the July, 1972, report to the board.

" 'The recent public image of Lancaster Manor operation has been unfortunate. Half-told tales, charges, counter charges, and public battles over sheets and floor wax have confused and concerned the public.

" 'Ignorance, suspicion and distrust feed upon themselves and only serve to erode the public confidence, not only in the particular institution, but further in government's ability to function,' " he quoted, adding, "This is obviously Mr. Colin's motive."

County To Cover Most Of Health Insurance Cost

Two-thirds of the cost of health insurance for Lancaster County employes and their families will be picked up by the county as a result of action Tuesday by Lancaster County Commissioners.

The commissioners approved the increased-county participation after receiving a written opinion from Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas.

William Greiner, representing the County Employes Association, had appeared before the board at numerous meetings urging the two-thirds participation since the city provides two-thirds of the cost for its employes.

Greiner said that the county's cost is now $41,376 while under the two-thirds proposal the county would be paying approximately $65,292 annually.

The commissioners also approved a recommendation by representatives of the Lincoln Housing Authority that a committee with representatives from the City Council, County Board and Housing Authority look into the need for a County-Wide Housing Authority.

Carroll Thompson and Lloyd Hinkley told the commissioners that it was their information that more federal funds would be available if the Housing Authority had county involvement but that they felt it first should be determined whether there is a need for such an agency for the county outside the city limits.

Board Chairman William Grossman said he felt studying the situation had "merit" but there are also some problems in that the county doesn't control towns such as Hickman and Waverly.

In other business, the board appointed Dr. Donald Sherrill, of the Lincoln Public Schools, as the ninth member to the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR) board. One member is yet to be appointed.

Commissioner Kenneth Bourne said that Supt. John Prasch had suggested that it might be well to have a representative of the schools on the board so that the schools could work more closely with LOMR in mental retardation programs.

In other action, the board awarded a contract to Abel Const. Co. for 2.64 miles of paving from Waverly north to Northeast 144th Street. Abel's bid was $139,273, with the only other bid being $140.997.73 submitted by Dobson Bros.

The commissioners also accepted the second low bid for a boiler at Westview on the recommendation of Commissioner Robert Colin who said that the smaller boiler included in the low bid could create problems with water supply.

Colin said the bids ranged from $3,091 to $7,093. The second low bid of $3,480 submitted by Wendt's Plumbing was approved.

The board also approved the hiring of the following deputy sheriffs at starting salaries of $650 per month: John Kite, Joseph Splichal, Glenn Lyman, Wesley Loos and Robert Boyes.

County Attorney Hires P. O'Brien To Fill Vacancy

A 30-year-old Lincoln attorney has been hired by Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas to fill one of the two openings in his office.

Patrick O'Brien, who graduated from the University of Nebraska and University of Nebraska Law School, will handle criminal work at a starting salary of $10,000 approved by Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday.

Patrick O'Brien

O'Brien served as a law clerk in the Supreme Court last year.

Douglas said he has not made a decision on the second man to be hired in his office.

One of the openings occurred when former Chief Deputy County Attorney William Blue was appointed a district judge while the other post is an added deputy approved by the commissioners several months ago.

W.C. Joern Named Director Of Southeast Health Council

William C. Joern, acting director of the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council since the resignation of Jerry Woollen earlier this month, was elected executive director at the Tuesday night meeting of the council's board of directors.

A proposal calling for the development of a public health department providing public health education, nursing services and mental health services in Butler County was endorsed by the board.

The establishment of a new a health department in Butler County would make it the first entirely rural county in the state to offer its citizens the traditional services offered at local, urban levels.

Funding for the department, including the mental health clinic which is already in operation, would come through a one mill tax of assessed evaluation, with support from the State Health Department. The first year budget is estimated at $27,070.

The board briefly discussed and adopted a committee report on the Nebraska Health Project, a $252,000 study to assess Nebraska's health care delivery system done by the Westinghouse Corporation.

Mike Higgins, a member of the board, said the 13 recommendations that comprised the project were an "insult to the citizens of Nebraska . . . and all of us who are participants in comprehensive health planning."

"The conclusions are without foundation, without accurate data and without consumer input," Higgins said.

John Angle, chairman of the committee which reviewed the project, said, "We do not think the plan as it now stands is detailed enough to react to."

The review committee charged the plan lacked any consumer input as to needs, and that the thrust of the plan's recommendations is to urge areawide planning councils to undertake functions that are regulatory in nature.

Brazil Coffee Leader

Washington — According to U.S. Department of Agriculture forecasts, Brazil will remain the world's top producer of coffee in 1972 with a total of 23.6 million bags (of 132 pounds each), Following will be Colombia with 7.3 million bags and the Ivory Coast with 4 million.

County Rejects Low Tax Publication Bid

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday refused to accept the lowest bid for publication of delinquent tax lists and awarded the contract for the printing to the Journal-Star Printing Co.

After some discussion about the amount of circulation for the money expended the commissioners rejected the bid of Sun Newspapers of 15c per listing per day or three days for 45c and accepted the only other bid of 16c per listing per day or 48c for three days submitted by the Journal-Star.

Several weeks ago County Clerk Carl Hartman suggested that the county consider use of newspapers other than the Journal-Star since publication rates for newspapers such as the Sun are considerably lower. The commissioners agreed to advertise for bids on major publications.

During bid opening Tuesday, Advertising Director James LeRossignol and National Advertising Manager Ray Hitchcock of the Journal-Star told the commissioners that the county should evaluate the circulation of the newspaper as well as the cost.

They noted that the paid audited circulation of the daily Journal-Star in Lancaster County is 47,235, while that of the Sun is 3,000, according to the Audit Bureau of Circulation Yearly Report.

They also pointed out that a newspaper with a larger circulation cannot sell ads for the same price as a newspaper with a circulation of only 3,000.

Commissioners Robert Colin and Kenneth Bourne agreed that there was "no question" but the county would be getting more for its money in the Journal-Star since the publication would reach more people.

However, Commissioner William Grossman, who went along with accepting the Journal-Star bid, contended that he didn't understand why the rates shouldn't be lower for a larger publication than for that of a smaller newspaper.

Public Schools To Drop Arnold Heights Bus Run

Lincoln Public Schools officials said Tuesday that the district will drop its two-year-old bus service for high school students in the Arnold Heights area, since the city's own bus line will begin serving the area this fall.

At an informal meeting of the Board of Education, Supt. John Prasch said the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) will begin runs from the Air Park housing area to Lincoln High School with the start of school in two weeks.

The service will be initiated under a charter basis, pending approval of a regular run, Prasch said.

He said a letter will be sent to parents in the Arnold Heights area to notify them of the change, and he promised school support for institution of a special student fare.

As a departure from its usual policy, the bus runs for the senior high students were initiated two years ago after bus service was dropped by the former Lincoln City Lines, the private bus firm which has since been converted into a city-owned system.

The school district's service was an unusual one in that high school students are generally not provided bus service. They paid the school district $40 a year, a fee which would jump to more than $100 if the students have to pay regular LTS passenger rates.

Prasch said he will press for institution of a student rate, but he also told the school board he believes the school district should not compete with the city bus company's efforts to serve Lincoln citizens.

Some 60 to 70 students have been served by the school district's bus service.

Prasch's letter to parents will point out that the service was originated because "of the lack of public transportation" and, "except for the unusual circumstances which prevailed at Arnold Park," the schools "would not have instituted the service."

In other matters, Prasch said he will recommend that the board retain its policy of last year for cable television transmission of high school football games.

Last fall the board permitted TV Transmission Inc. to televise six games. The cable TV firm has asked permission to transmit a game a week or a total of about 10 games.

Automatic Luggage Conveyor Belt Restored To Air Terminal Plans

Airline passengers arriving at Lincoln's new terminal building will be able to pick up their luggage on an automatic conveyor belt system afterall.

The Airport Authority Tuesday took a second look at the mechanical conveyor system and decided to include the facility in the terminal. Last month the authority deleted the conveyor system, costing $26,460, with electrical work, from architect's plans.

Authority chairman Joe Hampton and board member Robert Phillips said they had received numerous requests from the public for the inclusion of the baggage system, which will bring luggage to airline passengers on a continual rotating basis.

However, board member Dick Chapin still was disenchanted with the conveyor belt, saying, "It's more like a labor of love for the architects," adding, "the system is far from foolproof."

Both the architects and airport's private consultant had recommended the mechanical luggage system be included in the new terminal.

Hampton disagreed, saying that without the system "what we're creating is a sub-par structure."

Both Phillips and Dick Joyce changed their votes from last month to join Hampton in including the facility in the new terminal. Chapin still objected. Board member Fred Eiche, who last month voted against the project, was absent Tuesday.

In a related action the authority awarded contracts totaling $3.3 million for construction of the airport terminal to the apparent low bidders.

The authority followed through on last month's resolution in which contracts were tentatively awarded to: general contract, George Cook Construction Co.; mechanical, Natkin Co.; outside electrical, OK Electric; elevators, O'Keefe Elevator Co.; and escalators, Montgomery Co.

In other action the authority adopted a revised budget for fiscal 1972-73, of $9,632,425, which includes the new terminal project.

In further action the authority:

—Delayed action on awarding airport employe salary increases, pending outcome of city employe wage hikes.

—Approved $56,000 for strengthening the east-west taxiway, which is in need of repair.

—Called for city bus service to the terminal and general aviation area.

—Frontier Airlines reported an 11.5% increase in passenger service over July, 1971, while United Airlines reported a 1.6% increase over the same period last year. Trans-Nebraska reported a giant 152.6% jump in passenger traffic over July, 1971.

July Liquor Revenue Up

The Nebraska Liquor Control Commission reported July's total revenue was up $177,776 from last July's receipts of $593,174.

The receipts brought the total revenue for the year to $4,427,315 or about a $500,000 increase over the $3,966,618 received through the end of July last year.

The breakdown for this July included: spiritous liquor taxes, $403,287; fortified wines, $27,638; light wines, $16,631; beer, $276,676; license fees, $855; registration fees, $160; shipper permits, $25; and miscellaneous revenue. $45,675.

Property Tax Support Of Schools Will Go Up

Local property tax support for the Lincoln Public Schools in the coming fiscal year will increase by slightly less than two mills, according to finalized figures reported Tuesday to the Lincoln Board of Education.

The mill levy for all funds supporting the public schools category of the 1972-73 budget will be 54.962, compared with 52.979 for the current year.

A slight increase in the mill levy for the Lincoln Technical College, which is also responsible to the local school board, will push the total levy for school support to 56.958, compared with 54.853.

That figure includes the 1.996 mills for technical college support.

The board had set the maximum two-mill levy for the tech college, based on an estimated total assessed valuation of $410 million. The change was due to a recent county report that the figure should be $410,911,585.

The impact of that slightly higher figure also reduced to 3.991 what had been the maximum four mills to raise funds for the current building program.

The district's assessed value for the current year was $390,188,410.

Lincoln school officials estimate local property tax support of all operations of the public schools and the technical college would be considerably more without the help of state aid and other funds.

For the coming year, they estimate the mill levy would be approximately 73 mills instead of 56.9.

The accompanying table shows a comparison of the actual dollars to be raised locally for the two fiscal years and the corresponding mill levies.

FUNDS	1971-72 BUDGET	MILLS	1972-73 BUDGET	MILLS
Public Schools:
General Fund	$17,315,928	44.306	$19,189,770	46.700
Debt Retirement Fund	1,346,373	3.450	1,350,000	3.285
Teacher Retirement Fund	478,000	1.225	405,000	0.986*
Current Building	1,560,000	3.998	1,640,000	3.991
Public Schools Total	$20,700,301	52.979	$22,614,493	54.962
Technical College	731,060	1.874	820,000	1.996
Grand Total	$21,431,361	54.853	$23,434,493	56.958

*The Lincoln district's retirement fund will eventually be eliminated, since teachers in recent years have been covered by a state retirement system.

Mayor Appoints Police Examiners

The appointment of a policeman, an attorney and layman to the Police Board of Examiners was made by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Tuesday.

Serving one-year terms will be Police Inspector Robert Sawdon, attorney John Doyle and businessman Arthur Weaver.

Created by the mayor last June, the Police Board of Examiners will aid the mayor in investigating complaints lodged against individual police officers.

The board will supplement the existing Internal Affairs Office within the Lincoln Police Department which the mayor established last February.

With the addition of the board, citizens now have two options when filing a complaint alleging police misconduct — to go through the police department or go directly to the mayor.

However, complaints lodged with the mayor will not automatically go to the board since he can refer the matter to the police department for investigation before calling upon the Board of Examiners.

Creation of the Internal Affairs Office and police board grew out of the Human Rights Commission investigation into alleged police brutality and overall police-community relations. The commission recommended that a separate police review board be creted to investigate complaints against police.

Doctor Costs Drop; Hospital Costs Increase

The share of health care expenditures going for doctor bills dropped in the past decade while the share for hospital care and research rose, the Nebraska Medical Association reported Tuesday.

In 1960, according to association figures, doctor bills comprised 21.6% of the total health care bill at a national level, but that figure had dropped to 19% by 1971.

However, hospital care rose from 32.9% to 39.5, research from 6.6 to 7.4%, and nursing home care from 1.9% to 4.5%.

Shrine Chiefs Plan To Visit Bowl Game

Henry Struby of Evansville, Ind. Imperial Potentate, and other members of the Imperial Family of the Shrine of North America, will be making an official visit to the three Shrine Temples of Nebraska Thursday.

The visit is timed to coincide with the 14th annual Shrine Bowl game, scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

Struby will be officially welcomed at a banquet Friday night at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel, and will participate in pre-game activities, including the Shrine Bowl parade at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in downtown Lincoln.

The parade will include over sixty high school marching bands, as well as the parade units of the three Nebraska Shrine temples — Tehama of Hastings, Tangier of Omaha, and Sesostris of Lincoln.

The Shrine Bowl game raises about $70,000 annually to support the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital and the three Burns Institutes. The Nebraska bowl game is rated one of the top six Shrine Bowl games in the country.

1972 Is Labeled Deadliest Year For Traffic Safety

Chicago (UPI) — The National Safety Council says 1972 is the deadliest year on record for traffic safety in the United States. During the first six months 25,960 persons have died in traffic accidents.

Howard Pyle president of the council, said the figure is a 5% increase over last year. In a letter to Transportation Secretary John Volpe, Pyle said the major portion of the increase in fatalities was in rural areas.

Floods and bad weather condiions in the East may have contributed to keep the traffic death figures down in that part of the country, Plye said.

But deaths in the Mountain States were up 12, in the Pacific Coast States 10, in the East and South Central States up 9 and in the South Atlantic States up 8%.

Gov. Exon Urges Youth To Act On Local Level

Gov. J. J. Exon said Tuesday that if the youth of Nebraska really want to change the social lot of their neighbors, they should seek action on the local political level.

Exon was addressing the closing banquet of the 12th annual Nebraska Conference of Youth. The conference theme was "Let Youth Help Nebraska Grow."

"Political and social change cannot come about by your decisions only in the federal levels," Exon said, even though "the more glamorous issues and decisions are discussed and resolved in Washington."

The governor said the number one goal in Nebraska should be to make more attractive opportunities for the state's youth to make their homes in Nebraska, pointing out that out-migration from Nebraska has recently been reversed.

"It was a real pleasure to sign into law the 18-year-old franchise" for voting rights, Exon said. Youth have too long been relegated to licking the envelopes in campaign backrooms, he said.

However, he warned the youth that "passage of the law does not insure your respect, your committment, or your involvement.'

In the next year or two, Exon said he hopes to get conformity in the state between the voting age and the age of full majority.

He also proposed that it be made as easy as possible for all people, young and old alike, to register to vote. He asked what would be wrong with setting aside a half day each year during school to register students, and insure their right to vote.

"I think there is a great deal of apathy in your age group," Exon said, and urged the youth attending the conference to return to their schools and initiate action to get other students active and interested.

"Your most precious asset is your idealism," the governor said. "Your most difficult task is to mesh your idealism with realism to get the job done."

Following the governor's address, the 1972-73 executive committee of the Nebraska Council of Youth was announced. Donna Hays of Millard wiill succeed Dave Morrison of Kearney as chairman.

Other officers elected were Kerwin Stover, Ravenna, vice chairman; Karen Young, Ravenna, secretary; Don Ehly, Sutton, treasurer; Eric Carstenson, Grand Island, public relations; and Priscilla Raasch, Lincoln, conference chairman.

Board Paroles Two Women

By The Associated Press

The State Parole Board Tuesday freed a pair of Omaha women who had each been convicted of second degree murder in separate cases.

The two, Ivorn Fulton and Gloria Eva Oliva, had originally been sentenced each to 10 years in prison but the separate pardon board last month commuted their terms to shorter periods, making each eligible for early parole.

Miss Fulton, 31, was sentenced in 1967 in the shooting death of a boyfriend, Nathaniel Wilson, while Mrs. Oliva, 35, had been sentenced in 1969 in connection with the shooting of her uncle, Ralph Edgar Major.

In other cases Tuesday, the board paroled the following inmates (name, age, home, crime, and county where sentenced):

Wilbur Leo Sears, 30, Omaha, burglary, Douglas; Thomas James Zielinski, 32, Omaha, uttering forged instrument, Douglas; William Lee Bartlett, 22, Omaha auto theft, Douglas; Tony Alan Huerta, 22, Omaha, robbery, Douglas; James Edward Thrash, 21, North Platte, burglary, Lincoln; Gene Crawford, 24, Omaha, burglary, Douglas.

Gary Johns, 32, Omaha, forged instrument, Douglas; Kenneth Anderson, 19, Calif., auto theft and larceny from a person, Cheyenne; Richard De Loa, 20, Omaha, robbery, Douglas; Steve Spencer, 19, Omaha, forged instrument, Douglas; Dwight West, 20, Grand Island, malicious destruction property, Hall; Dennis Joslin, 21, Holdrege, manufacturing controlled substance, Harlan; Randall Kennedy, 21, Minn., manufacturing controlled substance, Harlan; Dwight Eugene Reddick, 25, Lincoln, rape, Lancaster; Anthony Yates, 21, Omaha, burglary, Sarpy.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

"The fevers of these lands assailed us," wrote the Spanish explorers who sailed up the steamy Rio de la Plata — the river of silver, around the bend of the green coast of Puerto Rico.

Woke this tropical morning upon a bed of pain and sorrow.

The coffee did me no good. The yellow-breasted banana birds fluttered around for crumbs but brought no joy to the heart. I felt bad.

☆ ☆ ☆

My oldest child has grown into a fortune cookie. At this age she knows everything.

"It's probably a common cold," she said. "Drink fruit juice and liquids —."

"Why is it just a common cold." I asked icily. Or as icily as you can when you are burning with fever. "Did they say, 'Just a common cold' to Sir Francis Drake. Just before they buried him off Panama."

"This feels," I said, "like dengue, or some other rare disease."

☆ ☆ ☆

At lunch time I didn't feel like eating. I went up and talked to a bartender who has been sympathetic.

"Monga," he said, "you have the monga."

"What's monga?" It sounded pretty good.

The bartender reached over and shook my hand.

"Congratulations, sir. Monga is a rare disease we get only in Puerto Rico. The symptoms are exact: the aching bones, the delicate stomach, the aching head. Oh, yes, it's the monga."

I thought about how sorry people would be when I passed to my reward.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Does it kill you?" I asked. I don't mind a romantic disease. But I don't want to die of it.

"Rarely," he said. "For we have learned over many years to treat it. To treat it," said the bartender, "we use alcohol. We take rum inside. And on the outside we use rubbing alcohol. The alcoholado — the perfumed bay rum you buy in every store. Stay with this and you are cured."

I rubbed a little rum on my forehead. It did feel good!

I swallowed a little. It was good rum.

My child came by. Full of tropical lunch and bursting with health.

She said: "I called the doctor. He said you couldn't have dengue fever. Because it's the wrong time of the year. He said you probably have a common—."

"I have monga," I said simply. "Ask him."

☆ ☆ ☆

"True," said the bartender shaking up a frozen daiquiri. "In Puerto Rico, the monga strikes overnight.

"To bed healthy. In the morning, the person is weak. Listless. It is in our history. The first Spaniards felt it. Ponce de Leon sailed up the Rio de la Plata and got it.

"I congratulate you, sir," he said, "because it is a fine thing for a souvenir. You can tell your friends at home — 'I had the monga.' Who among them can say that?

"They come from their trips to Europe with Swiss watches and English tweeds. But you — you come home with the monga. Also," said the bartender, "it is duty-free."

☆ ☆ ☆

The more I thought about it — and the more I rubbed myself with alcohol — the better it seemed. Monga can be serious.

I thought how sorry people would be when they viewed me. The late lamented, wasted away with monga. My child came back.

She said: "I called the doctor. He said monga is just the Puerto Rican word for the common—."

I interrupted her. I said: "Don't tell me. I'll tell you."

Faculty Exchange Program Announced

A first foreign faculty exchange program for the School of Environmental Development at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will send an NU professor of architecture to Oxford in England and will bring an Oxford professor to Lincoln.

Associate Professor Ronald E. Hess will exchange his teaching post at Nebraska and his home in Lincoln for similar items in Oxford, England, on Sept. 4.

His replacement at NU will be Philip Opher, senior lecturer in the School of Architecture at Oxford Polytechnic. Opher, his wife and five children will arrive in Lincoln about two weeks before the Hess' depart for England.

In Oxford, Hess, his wife Judith and their three children will live in the Opher home.

For the Hess family life in England will not be a new experience. They spent one semester in London where Hess was a leader of a fourth-year study project in England operated by the School of Environmental Development.

At Oxford Polytechnic, Hess will teach design courses and will act as design critic.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Wednesday

A leading comedian, who has made a study of astrology, reports to me that persons most difficult to make laugh are likely to be those born under the zodiacal sign of Capricorn. I have found that Gemini and Virgo, on the other side of the coin, laugh easily and respond hilariously to bizarre situations.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Get down to business. Say what you mean — mean what you say. Those in positions of authority are close observers. Be creative without flaunting conventions. Imprint your own style, but stick to rules of game.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You can successfully complete transaction. Don't attempt to hang on to outmoded procedures. Do what must be done — and get legal clearance. Many now express interest in your ideas, activities. Take advantage of attention.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): New relationship indicated where associate, co-worker enters picture. You are given more freedom. Tensions can be relieved. Speak your mind in cool, confident manner. Others now are receptive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Creative efforts now are emphasized. Make changes. Break free from restrictive influence. Family affair could be of concern. Be lenient without being foolish. Romance is in picture. Confusion is but temporary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stick to familiar ground. Fulfill social obligations. Stop pressing. Give yourself room and time. Question of property value is in picture. Get expert opinion, but adhere to principles. You will know what to do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Check calls, messages. Don't overlook apparent minor matter. Relative in transit may make special request. Be co-operative. You could be asking favor for yourself in near future. Establish contact with neighbor.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Money situation due to improve. State needs. Budget will be stretched in your favor. Outline essentials. Know what it is you actually require. Others due now to be responsive to your requests. Act accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You could be reunited with loved one. You get what you want; take initiative. Stress originality, creative approach. Taurus and Libra persons are in picture. Show appreciation for past favors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Behind scenes activity is featured. Be quiet within. Answers will be forthcoming. Don't attempt to force issues. Visit one confined to home, hospital. See situation in light of reality.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Money may be on line. Base decisions on lessons learned in past. Stick to what you know. Don't be pushed off course. Keep goal in sight. You are due for promotion. In personal area, special relationship is intensified.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Recognition due as prestige rises. Co-operate in special community project. Show others that you are sensitive, aware of those less fortunate. Aries is likely to be in picture. You can disagree without arguing.

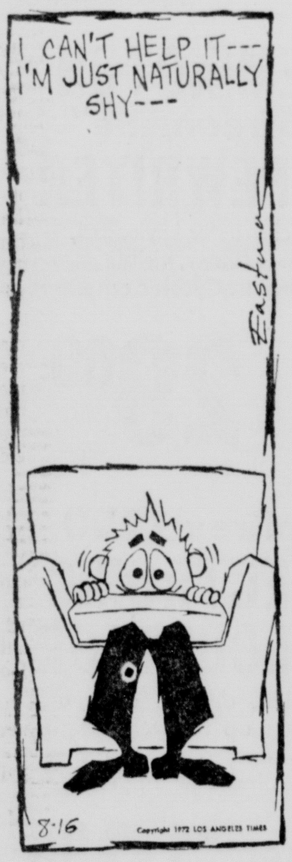

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): New contact could result in travel, expansion of personal horizons. Be receptive. Express willingness to learn. Keep open mind. Catch up on letter writing. Let one at a distance know that you are concerned.

Fremont Schools Keep Corporal Punishment

Fremont (AP) — By a 5-1 margin, the Fremont Board of Education has voted to retain corporal punishment in Fremont Public Schools.

Board President Stanley Carlson cast the lone dissenting vote on a resolution retaining the punishment with specific guidelines for administering it.

The guidelines state a paddle or spanking may be administered with prior parental approval or without such approval in the presence of the involved teacher and by the principal, assistant principal or a staff member.

Before the vote Carlson issued a prepared statement explaining his opposition to the resolution. He said, "I believe that corporal punishment is degrading. It represents a point at which there can be no personal respect left in for either party."

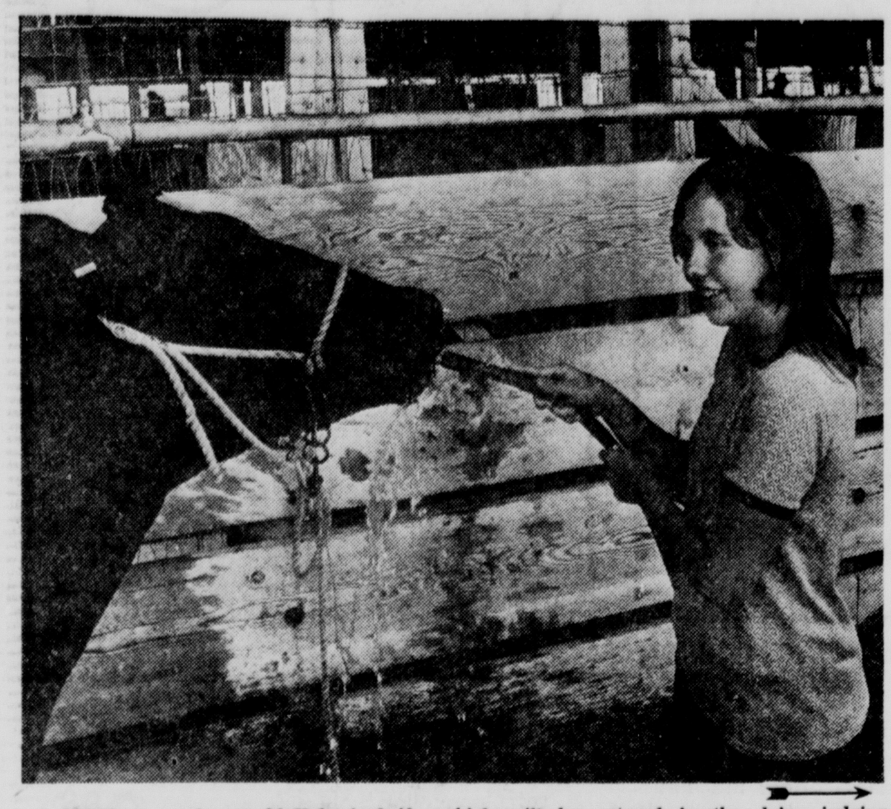

He also said, "I am very concerned about the possibility of a suit. The trend of court decisions suggests that if a board endorses the idea of corporal punishment that results in some kind of damage we all — teachers, administrators, individual board members — may very well be named defendants because the court will say that we encouraged such action by our policy statement."

The corporal punishment issue became public here in May when Nebraska Civil Liberties Union officials contacted school officers concerning a complaint at Fremont Junior High School.

The Monday night action came on the third and final reading of the resolution. Carlson originally had introduced a resolution to ban corporal punishment, but it failed on first reading.

After less than three months of operation, Fremont's drug abuse counseling center will be moving downtown from its present residential area location. The move was prompted by denial of a request to extend a lease on a rent-free building commonly known as The Manor.

The denial came from the Board of Education on a 4-1 vote. The current lease expires Aug. 31. The school board plans to hire a social worker to work as a home-school coordinator. The worker's office will be in the Manor.

Open Class Beef Show Nets Breed Champions At Fair

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"We are very pleased with the open class beef show this year. We had 63 entries this year compared to 17 last year," said Mrs. Dale Weese, secretary of the Lancaster County Fair.

"That is 5-times the number we have had some years. A lot of small herds came this year becuase we have the open class, a part of the smaller county fair. In past years the county fair winners were selected from county winners in the state fair which tended to discourage the owners of small herds who did not want to enter the large state fair," she said.

No grand champion of the fair was picked. Awards were limited to breed champions.

4-H Results Page 21

The champion Angus bull was shown by Tom Haley of Crete and the reserve Angus by Triple R Farms of Bennett.

The champion Angus female was shown by Dennis Schnieder of Martell with Triple R farms showing the reserve champion.

The champion Shorthorn bull was shown by Valley View Farms of Waverly and the reserve champion by Steven Rocker of Walton.

The champion and reserve champion female Shorthorns were both shown by Valley View Farms.

There were no Hereford bulls entered in the show. The champion Hereford female was shown by Lynn Neujahr of Lincoln and the reserve champion by Bruss Brothers of Bennet.

More than 330 judges toiled through the afternoon examining thousands of entries, including fine arts, photography, electric motors, clothing, needlework, collections of weeds and insects, as well as garden produce and livestock.

Entries are apparently about normal in the open class competition. Garden exhibits are up considerably this year with large numbers of poultry and rabbits also entered.

The Wednesday judging schedule begins with sheep at 7:30 a.m., swine at 8 a.m. and dairy cattle at 12:00 noon.

Both 4-H and FFA beef will be judged Thursday between 8 a.m. and 12 p.m.

Two style reviews will be held. The younger girls with beginning projects will parade Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. and the advanced girls on Thursday at 9 a.m.

The fair is open to the public Wednesday and Thursday until 9 p.m. free of charge.

A purple ribbon show and program featuring presentation of awards will begin at 8:00 p.m. Thursday in the 4-H building show ring. The program will include presentation of the best livestock, the purple ribbon winning 4-H and FFA members and the announcement of the style queens picked during the dress reviews.

Fire Safety Equipment Pacts OKd

Gov. J. James Exon approved contracts Tuesday totaling $134,234 for fire safety equipment at the Norfolk, Hastings and Lincoln Regional Centers.

A $43,825 contract for construction at the Lincoln Regional Center was awarded to the Gregg Electric Co. of Lincoln. The work at the Norfolk and Hastings centers went to the Protex Systems, Inc., of Hastings for $29,305 and $51,104 respectively.

This work will be the second phase of the fire safety projects and will include detection and alarm systems, fan shutdowns, magnetic door motors and emergency lights.

Auburn Family Wins Top Honors At Nemaha Fair

By Gwen Nobbe
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Auburn —Put another feather in the Holland family cap. They won top honors in chickens and rabbits, and they won by more than just a hare.

Therese, 12, and Debbie, 13, showed the grand and reserves champions in the poultry classes, then Debbie went on to show the grand champion rabbit, with the reserve champ honors going to her younger brother Kenneth.

The Holland children, son and daughters of Duayne Holland of Auburn, took their honors at the annual Nemaha County Fair in Auburn running through Wednesday.

Mother Holland. proud as punch about her winning team, says the family has been raising rabbits, ducks, geese, chickens, and kids for years, and the combination just seems to make for a happy family.

"Up until last year we raised mixed breeds of rabbits, mainly for eating and selling, but this year the girls started with the pedigreed stock, and they've done real well for their first time," Mrs. Holland said.

How do you take care of rabbits?

According to Debbie, rabbits take more time than some of the larger animals because you have to clean their cages constantly, feed, water, and give them lots of attention.

"We still have to sell some of them when we get too many, but we don't sell the ones we really get attached to," Debbie said.

Although Debbie only has two breeds of rabbits on the home place, her sister, Therese, has in her charge several breeds of chicken, from common hen to one specimen that actually lays pink, green and blue eggs.

"I've been interested in the chickens for the last five years, but my mom is the one who knows just about everything when it comes to breeds," Therese said.

According to Mrs. Holland, although the girls are old enough to enter their winners in the state fair competition it's doubtful the family will be able to make the trip to Lincoln because of school and farm commitments.

"That, however, doesn't dim the girls' enthusiasm because they are looking forward to a statewide Youth Rabbit Show to be held in Lincoln next Spring, and you can bet you'll find them there — somewhere among the champions," Mrs. Holland predicted.

According to Nemaha County Fair Superintendent Roy Steinheider, fair entries were down somewhat this year, but overall attendance at the annual event was up.

"We haven't had any problems. The only reason the entries are down is farm population itself is decreasing little by little each year," he said.

He noted one of the highlights of the fair was the Tuesday night naming of the Nebraska Pioneer Farm Family Awards for Nemaha County. Families honored were:

Eugene H. and Nellis A. Allemand, Stella; Beulah M. Miner and Genevieve M. Gorden, Stella; Morris and Janice Andrew Auburn; Lawrence and Rose Bernard, Auburn; Lenora and Randall Parker, Auburn; Irene and Joe C. Keister, Auburn.

Arleene B. and Ruth Ritchie, Auburn; John H. and Lydia Neddenriep, Johnson, Eli and Lydia Plager, Humboldt; Lawrence L. and Veve M. Quante, Brock.

Highway Accidents Fatal To 5

From Press Reports

Separate traffic accidents in Nebraska claimed the lives of five persons raising the 1972 death toll to 275, compared with 260 one year ago.

The victims were Robert E. Brethouwer, 42, of 1140 Butler, Lincoln; Mrs. Alice Blackhorse, 69, of Idaho Springs, Colo.; Mike Luther, 17, of rural Hooper; Burnice S. Oliver Jr., 31, of Fairbury, and Kent L. Hagstrom, 19, of Ashland.

Mr. Hagstrom died when the tractor on which he was riding overturned just east of Memphis on state spur 78C Tuesday evening.

Injured in the mishap were Jack Fudge, 19, of Ashland, who was hospitalized with a dislocated hip, and Dennis and Dale Hanson of rural Ashland, who were treated and released.

Mrs. Blackhorse died in a one-car accident three-fourths of a mile south of Sidney on Highway 19 when the vehicle she was in apparently went out of control on a sharp curve and overturned.

Her daughter, Wanda, 35, was hospitalized in Sidney.

State Patrol officials said Luther died in a one-car crash three miles east and two miles north of Winslow on a county road.

The Patrol said the car in which Luther and five other persons were riding went out of control and hit a bridge abutment. The other five persons in the car were hospitalized in Fremont.

A car-semitrailer truck collision a mile and a half south of the junction of Highways and 16 Tuesday afternoon was fatal to Oliver.

The patrol said the Oliver car apparently crossed the center line of Highway 15 and hit the tandem axle of the truck. The truck driver was identified as Jackie C. Wheeler, 43, of Vernon, Tex.

Funeral services for Mr. Brethouwer have been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Friday at sUmberger-Sheaff Mortuary.

Brethouwer was killed early Tuesday morning in a head-on collision with a semi-trailer truck about nine miles west of Seward on U.S. 34, according to the Seward County sheriff's office.

Officers said Brethouwer was driving a pickup truck when he apparently crossed the center line and struck the semi, which was pulling two trailers loaded with wheat from Sterling, Colo.

He is survived by his wife, Betty Jean; four sons, Terry B., Robert C., Charles and Jeffery, all of Lincoln; two daughters, Carolyn and Tammy Jo, both of Lincoln; his mother, Mrs. Minnie Barnhouse of Lincoln; two brothers, Jack Barnhouse and Harold Dale Brethouwer, both of Lincoln; a sister, Mrs. Theodore (Betty) Brittan, of Phoenix; and two grandchildren.

Omaha Man Remembers His 28-Day Mercy Mission

Omaha (AP) — Phil Conroy remembers the night ride he took over a road where anything moving was pretty much legal game.

He remembers the disappointments and delays in trying to obtain desperately needed documents.

He remembers holding a child, hot with fever, in his arms.

He remembers the sights, sounds and smells of the orphanages where the nearly forgotten children of a war-torn land struggle for existence.

Tears Of Joy

But he remembers, too, the tears of joy and gratitude that ended his 28-day mercy mission. And most of all, he thinks of the 17 Vietnamese orphans who have been given a second chance at life.

What prompted the 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Conroy of Omaha to devote nearly a month so that 17 children could fly to new homes in America?

He had, he said, two ordinary reasons. Their names are Ruth and Joe and they were orphans adopted by his own parents from the Tan Binh Orphanage near Cam Ranh Bay last year.

"I'd seen what the children were like through Joe and Ruth," he said, "and I know through my parents that 17 other families in Ohio, New York, Iowa and Nebraska had begun adoption procedures in Vietnam."

Earlier this summer fate gave him the chance to do something. A Navy reservist, he was assigned to serve six weeks aboard an aircraft carrir cruising near Vietnam.

Going To Try

The last thing he told his mother before flying to the assignment was: "Mom, I'm going to try to get those kids out of there."

"I knew if I could get a leave of absence I could speed up the paper work," he said. "And as a Navy reservist, I figured I might be able to get a little military backing."

It took a lot of talking and some letters to officials such as Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., but on July 15, Conroy, on a leave of absence, flew into Saigon.

During the next three weeks he became enmeshed in a world of detail. He was involved with application forms, exit authorizations, birth certificates, photos, release papers, medical reports, visas, passports and transportation.

He found ways to bridge language barriers, asked for and got help from Vietnamese officials and U.S. Embassy personnel and worked with a Saigon attorney hired by the American families to handle adoption procedures there.

PHIL CONROY . . . with Ruth, adopted Viet girl.

Red Tape Cut

He finally cut through the red tape, obtained all the papers and arranged transportation.

The wife of an embassy employe flew out with nine children headed for Ohio families and last Friday, Conroy and eight orphans boarded another Pan-American airliner for San Francisco. One child was routed from there to New York and Saturday Conroy and the seven other children arrived in Omaha.

"I lived on prayers for a couple of days," he said. "But if a guy has the opportunity to do some thing like this I think he has an obligation to make the most of it."

"Vietnam is so different," he said, "Children there get sick and die and it's just accepted. But here there are people who can offer security and care and love. Helping just one child makes it all worthwhile."

Nebraska ETV Will Originate CEN Programs

The Nebraska Educational Telecommunications Center Tuesday became the program origination point for the Central Educational Network (CEN).

Each week, programs to be carried by CEN member stations will be fed from the telecommunications center in Lincoln to approximately 25 public television stations throughout the midwest.

The origination schedule will encompass two hours of broadcast time every Tuesday evening from 9:00-11:00 p.m. with occasional specials throughout each month.

Wholesome colored comics, feature stories with plenty of pictures and the big entertainment section are a few reasons why nearly everyone reads the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Eagleton Will Speak in Omaha

Omaha (UPI) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., who recently relinquished the Democratic vice presidential nomination, has accepted an Omaha speaking engagement for Oct. 1.

Mrs. Eugene O'Sullivan, chairman, said Eagleton would speak at the Douglas County Democratic Candidates Day here.

Tickets costing $5 each will be sold to raise money for local candidates.

Low Quality Wheat Is Discussed

The problems of the low quality wheat in Nebraska and what to do about it occupied the attention of the Advisory Committee to the Division of Wheat Development, Utilization and Marketing, Nebraska Dept. of Agriculture Tuesday.

The committee has been trying to improve the protein content of the state's winter wheat crop for several years. A mobile laboratory traveled with the wheat harvesters this year attempting to spot wheat quality problems and advise farmers about their wheat protein level.

The price of wheat can vary a dime or more a bushel, depending on the amount of protein it contains.

The laboratory was an effort to bring the importance of high protein to the farmers and elevator operators and an attempt to learn how important fertilizer is in improving wheat quality.

"Farmers are not going to spend money on extra fertilizer to improve the quality of wheat until we can improve the marketing system to the point where the farmer gets paid for better quality wheat," warned Dr. Don Hunway, chairman of the agronomy department at the University of Nebraska.

Several committee members pointed to the difficulty of keeping various lots of wheat separated according to quality at an elevator taking in large quantities of the crop at harvest time.

Hanway acknowledged that this was a problem but told of elevator operators that pay a premium for wheat above a certain level of protein.

"I think testing wheat for quality could be of real value to a wheat farmer who has some storage on his farm. Perhaps if we can find a way to test the wheat early in the season he can store high quality wheat and sell his ordinary wheat. Later he hopefully could find an improved market for his quality wheat after the big rush at the elevator was ended," Hanway suggested.

No decision was made whether the mobile laboratory would be used again next year, but the majority of the committee members seemed interested in trying it again after a careful evaluation of procedures used by the lab was made.

In other action, the committee reelected Arlee Phillips, Hemingford, chairman and Wayne Nielsen, Lincoln, vice chairman.

Jackson Claims Soviets Lied To Nixon About Submarines

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Tuesday the Russians lied to President Nixon in Moscow during discussion over a temporary agreement to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

"The Russians lied in Moscow. They said they had 48 submarines. We now know from intelligence sources they didn't have 48. They only had 42," Jackson told reporters in a Capitol hallway.

The Russians' reason, Jackson said, was to give the impression that they had "more momentum" in building up their nuclear submarine fleet. This momentum, he said, led the United States to agree to an overall total of 62 Polaris-type submarines for the Russians, against a limit of 44 for the United States.

Jackson made the accusation as negotiatons broke down for a vote on his amendment to a bill implementing the interim agreement. Jackson's amendment would serve notice to the Russians that the United States would not permit itself to fall behind the Soviet Union in military power because of any weapon improvement they might make during the five-year interim.

As debate on the interim agreement dragged on, Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, warned that even under the U.S.-Soviet arms limitation agreements the nuclear arms race would continue among other nations.

Temporary Limits

The Senate approved Aug. 3 a treaty limiting strategic defensive nuclear arms and is now debating a bill imposing temporary limits on offensive nuclear weapons pending negotiation of a permanent treaty, expected in the latter part of this decade.

"Senators should face the fact that, while we debate this bilateral first step, the nuclear arms race is accelerating among other powers," Stennis said. On the Senate floor, meanwhile, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"There is something behind his (President Nixon's) support of the Jackson amendment that does not meet the eye."

Food Share Dropping

Washington — Twenty years ago Americans paid 23% of their take-home pay for food. In 1971 they spent 16%, and in 1972 they are expected to spend less than 16%.

That's why more debate is needed, "Do you agree?"

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, asked Fulbright, "that if the Senate adopts the Jackson amendment the country and the world would have the right to assume that the Senate is dissatisfied with the agreement as negotiated?"

"I do not see how it could be interpreted any other way," Fulbright replied.

It appeared that the Senate was in an impasse over when to vote on the interim agreement bill, and amendments to the bill, that almost certainly could not be broken until after Congress returns to work in September following the recess for the GOP National Convention and Labor Day.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who attended the closed-door negotiations for an agreement to vote, appeared frustrated and irritated at lack of an agreement.

"In my best judgment some senators are not ever going to be willing to vote on this — ever," Scott said.

Jackson declned to divulge the source of his information that the Russian negotiators lied to President Nixon. But he said "I am not violating any security.

"They know they lied."

ABA Proposes No-Fault Insurance Plan For All States

San Francisco (AP) — The American Bar Association late Tuesday proposed that all states adopt a modified form of no-fault insurance for automobile accidents.

If the state legislatures go along, all injured drivers, passengers or pedestrians would receive up to $2,000 to cover medical benefits and loss of wages, regardless of who was at fault in the accident.

The action was taken by the policy-setting House of Delegates on a voice vote. First the lawyers rejected a recommendation by top association officials that they postpone consideration of no fault insurance until next year.

However, the plan was altered to permit unlimited suits for what is known as "pain and suffering." A special ABA committee headed by Judge John T. Reardon of Quincy, Ill., had called for severe limits on such suits.

Still, James D. Ghiardi, a Milwaukee lawyer and member of the Reardon Committee, said most small cases would be swept out of the courts because of the automatic recovery provision.

"If you pay the people their economic loss they generally will not seek 'pain and suffering,'" he said in an interview.

Last week, the Senate shelved a proposed no-fault federal law. At about the same time, the National Conferenc of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, meeting here, proposed a strong no-fault plan be adopted state-by-state.

NPPD Reports Record Power Outputs Tuesday

Columbus (AP) — The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) reported record outputs of power in the eastern two-thirds of the state Tuesday, excluding the Omaha area.

NPPD said three records were estabished. The first came at 4 p.m. when output peaked at 1,243,200 kilowatts, again at 5 p.m., with peak output of 1,261,300 kilowatts, and once more at 6 p.m. with 1,268,100 kilowatts.

The 6 p.m. total was 72,100 kilowatts more than noted on Aug. 23 of last year.

Meanwhile, the Omaha Public Power District reported similar records for the second consecutive day.

OPPD reported output of 984,000 kilowatts between 3 and 4 p.m. Tuesday, surpassing Monday's mark of 974,000.

Actually, the OPPD mark was shattered twice, the first time between 2 and 3 p.m. Tuesday when output reached 974,000 kilowatts.

4-PLY POLYESTER CORD GLASS TRACK BELTED ROAD TAMER TIRE

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

Four tough polyester cord plies offer you rugged strength. Two strong fiber glass belts stabilize the wide, deep tread for tight traction and long mileage. 40-month tread wear expectancy.

ACTION LINE

DIAL 477-2121

Or Write P.O. Box 81689, Lincoln, NE 68501

Help! Quick! What can I do with big items I want to throw away but which are too big for regular trash collection. I have TV set innards, rosebush branches, rusty bicycle frames, an old step ladder . . . —G.R., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A quick survey of trash haulers reveals that customs vary among the dozens of Lincoln haulers. Most companies, however, said that they would haul away even outsize items at no extra charge if the items were placed in easy reach of trash haulers and were clearly meant to be taken.

The important thing here is to contact your own hauler. Catch him when he collects or call him. Some outfits will alert their men in advance that large items are to be picked up. Or you may mark the items to be taken.

Exceptionally large items or a large accumulation of junk may cost extra. Again, work out the job with your hauler in advance.

A poor last resort is to take the stuff yourself to the dump. Experienced haulers warn, however, that such a trip may cost more in tire and car repairs than hiring the job done.

Am I misinformed, or is someone else? I am reading a study book on the federal government. It says that on the death or incapacitation of the president the vice president "assumes the duties of the office." Does this mean he is the president or is he still the vice president? —E. L. Cochran, Adams

ACTION LINE: Fortunately for us, the U.S. Constitution and its amendments are clearer than your textbook.

The 25th Amendment reads: "In the case of the removal of the President from office or of his death or resignation, the Vice President shall become President."

In the event of incapacitation, the vice president immediately becomes acting president. Incapacitation is established in writing whether by the ailing president himself or by the vice president and a majority of the principal officers of the executive departments or a congressionally approved body. The president will then tell the country when he is ready to resume duties.

Yankee Hill Cemetery is in such bad condition — weeds and wild grass look like they haven't been mowed for years. I thought all cemeteries were to be kept in good condition. What's the problem at Yankee Hill? —L.D.R., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The story is an interesting but sad one. Cemetery manager Bion Dill says that the members of the cemetery board have all been dead for some time. The records for the land were passed to a mortuary which eventually handed over the documents and $100 to Dill about 20 years ago.

Dill arranged for a well to be dug for use in decorating graves. Since then he has donated his own time to the 7½-acre cemetery, filling in sunken graves and mowing the grounds about three times a year.

These days the law requires that new cemeteries provide for perpetual care by charging prices that permit some of the income to be put out on interest. But when Yankee Hill was first used — the oldest of the 1,000 graves there is dated 1848—no such arrangement was made. With no money for care, the sometimes disheveled appearance is not surprising.

While our son was on vacation this summer his Marine discharge papers (four years active, two years reserve) came to the house. By the time he got back, I had lost them. Will he need them? —Worried Mom, Ericson

ACTION LINE: If your son was on the ball a few years ago when he was discharged from active duty, your worries are minimal. He should at that time have received defense department form 214 (DD214) and instructions to file that document with the county clerk. The clerk's office would have stamped the form and recorded it at no charge. That document is the one needed for employment purposes, according to a local Marine recruiter.

The papers which were mailed to you this summer were full discharge papers proving that your son had completed his six-year obligation in the service. They are somewhat ceremonial. The recruiter says he framed his.

You can get a set of those papers by sending your son's name, rank, Social Security and service numbers to the Commandant of the Marine Corps, Personnel Branch, Washington, D.C.

Incidentally, the county clerk says that vets who neglect to file their DD214 have no end of trouble in receiving full service benefits if they lose the paper.

Now that the Supreme Court has ruled that an indigent person charged with a misdemeanor in which he faces a possible jail sentence has a right to court-appointed counsel, who determines indigency? —Chick Lawlor, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Persons charged with misdemeanors and facing a possible jail sentence are taken to the probation office where they fill out forms supplying employment and financial information. Then if they want court-appointed legal counsel they sign a poverty affidavit, according to Bob Keller, municipal court probation officer.

The judge then decides whether or not the person is indigent. The poverty affidavit can be questioned by either the judge or prosecution. In the absence of real guidelines, Keller says, it's up to the judge to decide whether a person can pay an attorney or, if he is employed, can earn the money.

Patrol Official Unhappy With Lenient Court Trend In Pot Picking Cases

By United Press International

The head of the State Patrol's Drug Division said Tuesday he hopes courts and prosecutors discontinue a leniency trend with harvesters of Nebraska wild marijuana crop.

"As a general rule, it appears the courts are very lenient with these cases," said Lt. Wayne Rowe. "One major reason, probably, is that most of the people involved are from out of state."

However, he said, while the goal of the courts appears to be to get them back out of the state, by being lenient with penalties they actually encourage the illicit operations.

The patrolman noted the courts acted during last summer's August through October harvest season under the state's 1971 omnibus drug control law.

Built in to the law were provisions which allow the courts a great deal of flexibility.

The purpose for such flexibility, Rowe said, was to permit penalties to better fit the individual cases. He cited as an example of the flexibility provisions which allow as little as a $1 fine and one day in jail, or as much as a prison term, for heroin.

The problem arises, Rowe said, from "getting in a rut" in processing the cases through the courts.

"They tend to get in a rut and instead of looking at each case individually, as the law intends, they treat them all the same," he said.

He also said the courts, by being lenient with out of state law violators, set a precedent for handling in-state cases.

As to the status of the crop, the State Agriculture Department reports it is above average.

"This year is ideal for all weeds, including marijuana, unfortunately," said Marvin Sitorius, head of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry.

However, he said, while marijuana is a weed, it is not subject to control programs as are other varieties and thus enforcement agencies bear the brunt of the control effort.

"The growth of marijuana does not pose an economic threat no farm crops and thus state law makes no specific provision for controlling it," Sitorius said.

But, he added, the department doesn't turn its back on the problem completely and does indirectly promote control efforts in conjunction with eradication of economically harmful weeds.

Rowe said because of the ready availability and because of federal border efforts to stop importation of marijuana, it appears the number of incidents in Nebraska will increase.

"Even though the quality is not supposed to be very good, it now brings just as much money on the market because of the federal efforts," he said.

Already, he added, it seems there's "been a large amount of activity" across the state. But, he said, "it always seems that way."

The final tally of cases won't be known until November at the earliest for comparison purposes, Rowe said.

The patrolman also said most apprehensions result from landowner tips and he asked that farmers and ranchers continue their cooperation with enforcement agencies.

8 Minor State Agencies Meet Budget Deadline

A total of eight state agencies have filed their budget requests for fiscal 1973-74 with the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) as of Tuesday —the deadline for minor agencies.

Roughly 47 other minor agencies have either received an extension for preparing their requests or else are expected to submit them shortly.

Generally, the eight agencies asked for moderate budget increases in an effort to keep in step with the Exon administration's "hold-the-line" budgetary policy.

The operating budgets consist of four parts:

The continuation budget which includes increases necessary to maintain current levels of services; the workload budget which reflects the cost of supplying or discontinuing current levels; the new services budget; and capital construction requests.

None of the eight budgets submitted showed requests for new services. In fact, the Board of Examiners for Land Surveyors request for 1973-74 is exactly the same as its 1972-73 expenditures, $3,625.

The Commission on Aging asked for the greatest budget increase —from $1.9 million in 1972-73 to $3.9 million for 1973-74.

The other six agencies' requests (1972-73 budget shown in parenthesis) are:

Department of Insurance, $758,312 ($697,296).

Racing Commission, $222,928 ($218,498).

Technical Assistance Agency, $220,124 ($203,548).

Athletic Commission, $20,971 $17,201).

Department of Veterans Affairs, $223,627 ($210,061).

Board of Pardons, $46,823 ($40,433).

The major state agencies have until Sept. 15 to submit their budget requests to DAS. The major agencies are the Military Dept., Educational Lands and Funds, the Game and Parks Commission, Economic Development Dept., the Education Dept., the State Colleges, the University of Nebraska, the Dept. of Public Institutions, the Welfare Dept., the Roads Dept., Dept. of Revenue, the Aeronautics Commission, Dept. of Agriculture, Health Dept., Labor Dept., Motor Vehicles Dept. and the State Patrol.

Home Ec Teachers Hosted By Ag Dept.

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Wheat Division of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture played host to 64 brand new home economics teachers Tuesday in Lincoln.

"We view this luncheon as an educational program by the Wheat Division," said Glenn Kreuscher, state director of agriculture.

"We know that the food practices these girls will be teaching will have a tremendous effect on what families of the future will be eating, so we want to be sure they know what wheat has to offer," he added.

Kreuscher presented an official membership in the Nebraska Navy which named Erwin F. Siegler, executive chef of the Radisson Blackstone Hotel in Omaha, as the top cook in the Nebraska Navy.

Siegler was honored for the development of a new sandwich called Swiss Toast which was served at the luncheon.

Mrs. Lorena A. Meyers, a consumer specialist with the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), spoke on the federal agency's role in consumer protection.

One recommendation by FDA may result in the sale of larger amounts of flour.

"Cooking bags are a great convenience but some women have been burned when they exploded," said Mrs. Meyers.

"We are recommending that homemakers put a tablespoon of flour in the cooking bag. Research indicates that this will greatly reduce the danger of the bag popping," Mrs. Meyers told the teachers.

"Millions of these bags are being used so the recommendation will provide a market for a large quantity of flour even at the rate of a tablespoon per bag," she said.

Mrs. Meyers also advised that FDA was recommending increased amounts of iron be added to enriched flour.

"We don't get as much iron from our food as we used to for two reasons. First, we eat less than people used to because we don't work as hard as we used to so we consume less iron...

Secondly, we seldom use iron cookware which used to provide minute amounts of iron in our diets," she said.

Girls Town To Be Sold To Clarkson Hospital

Omaha (AP)—Clarkson Hospital will purchase Girls Town with the hope of eventually selling it to the University of Nebraska, Clarkson administrator James Canedy said Tuesday.

Sister Mary Gabriel, program director and representative of the Good Shepherd Order, which owns the Omaha property, said the sale price will be about $650,000.

Canedy said the hospital has a contract to purchase the site and will exercise it as soon as it gets final notification from Girls Town.

Sister Mary Gabriel said the home will close about Sept. 1 and will be completely vacated by about Oct. 1.

Canedy said that "if feasible," the site will be sold "in part or in whole" to the University, whose Medical Center campus is nearby.

He said Clarkson officials feel that "NU has to have a protected area around it for long-range development. We want to make sure this land will be available for Medical Center expansion."

NU Medical Center Chancellor Robert Sparks said the University has been holding "informal discussions" with Clarkson officials about the property.

Three years ago, the University tried and failed to persuade the legislature to appropriate $1 million for the purchase of the land, he said.

Now officials are considering making another such request to the Board of Regents at its September meeting and then to the Legislature, he said.

No Medical Center projects were included on the high priority preliminary list of capital improvements presented to the regents at the last meeting, Sparks said. However, that list could possibly be revised in light of changed circumstances, he said, adding: "We are interested in the property."

Sparks said that in earlier long-range planning the University was interested in the site for student housing but current plans are uncertain.

Clarkson Hospital now has a parking lot in one section of the Girls Town grounds.

Blizzards Most Dangerous Natural Disaster—Johnson

Grand Island (AP)—Nebraska's winter blizzards endanger more persons than any other natural disaster the state experiences, Burl Johnson, assistant state Civil Defense director, said here Tuesday.

Johnson was in Grand Island for a two-day blizzard operations seminar which ended Tuesday.

He said an average of 30,000 persons are traveling along Nebraska Interstate 80 at any given time. He said they would be affected by any blockage or slowdown on the Interstate system.

Johnson said in recent years more persons have died in Nebraska as a result of severe winter storms than from any other natural disaster.

The state agency presented a group of model plans at the two-day meeting which local Civil Defense directors will use to map plans for their own particular situations. Plans for a coordinated statewide system are also being made.

A follow-up meeting of Civil Defense directors, featuring a simulated blizzard situation and the use of plans adapted between now and then, is planned.

$1,419,000 Loan Approved For G.I. Rural Public Power District

Washington (AP) — The Rural Electrification Administration (REA) notified the Nebraska Congressional delegation Tuesday a loan of $1,419,000 has been approved for the Southern Nebraska Rural Public Power District, Grand Island.

The REA said the borrower also proposes to obtain additional funds from a private source — the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation for the project.

It includes 84 miles of distribution line to serve 341 customers, system improvements, and eight miles of transmission line.

Southern Nebraska provides service in Hall, Adams, Clay, Gosper, Hamilton, Kearney, Merrick, Nance, Phelps and York Counties.

Omaha Based Firm Buys Gulf Stations

Omaha (AP) — A new Omaha-based independent oil company has taken over 25 Gulf Oil Co. service stations in Omaha, Lincoln and Council Bluffs, Iowa, the new company's president said Tuesday.

Don De Sciscio, head of the 400 Oil Co., said his firm bought 11 stations in Omaha, nine in Council Bluffs and five in Lincoln.

Seventeen of the stations have been refurbished and are now open under the 400 name and the remainder should be open by Sept. 1, De Sciscio said.

A Gulf spokesman said the stations were sold because Gulf found them unprofitable. He said Gulf will continue to operate two stations in Omaha and one each in Lincoln and Council Bluffs.

De Sciscio operated a wholesale petroleum business in Des Moines before coming to Omaha.

He said the name of his firm comes from the fact that the variety store departments in the service stations will have 400 items for sale.

Curfew Is Lifted In Gaza Strip

Tel Aviv (AP) — The Israeli military command lifted the night curfew beginning Tuesday from all urban areas in the occupied Gaza Strip, an army spokesman announced.

It was believed to be the first time the teeming towns and villages of the refugee-packed strip have been without a curfew since the 1967 Mideast war.

The 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. curfew remains in force in the countryside, along the sea and along the former demarcation lines, the spokesman said.

The curfew was lifted following a marked lessening of tension in the strip. Terrorist activity declined sharply over the past eight months and last week Israel withdrew its crack border troopers from the area.

More Humane Treatment Asked By Clark

Ramsey Clark

San Francisco (UPI) — Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said Tuesday he had asked for more humane treatment of American prisoners of war while in North Vietnam and chastised an official of President Nixon's re-election campaign for dealing in second-hand information by charging American prisoners weren't well treated.

Rita Hauser, co-chairman of the Committee to Re-Elect the President and a former U.S. representative to the United Nations Human Rights Commission, asked Clark during a question and answer session at the American Bar Association luncheon:

"Did you not feel any constraint, having a unique opportunity to plead the cause of our prisoners, to see whether you could not persuade Hanoi to live up to its own legal obligations under international law?" she said she had seen "reams of evidence" of inhumane treatment of Americans in North Vietnam in her U.N. job.

"What makes you think I didn't do it?" Clark retorted. "Of course I pleaded for American prisoners. I wish you would go there. Why don't you go there? You don't learn everything in that big glass building on 42nd Street (the United Nations)."

Clark said he had talked two hours with the prisoners he saw and had asked themabout those in other camps.

"I think they are treating the prisoners humanely," he said. "I think the people who say they are not may have motives themselves. Tfoey may care more about the Thieu government than getting the boys home."

Clark Used?

Miss Hauser told reporters later she felt Hanoi officials intended to use Clark "for their own purposes."

Asked about charges that he was disloyal by broadcasting over Radio Hanoi, Clark said he refused to address the North Vietnamese over the radio or to speak to American troops through this means. In July, actress Jane Fonda addressed American pilots flying bombing missions against the north, urging them to "think what you are doing," in their raids.

He said the North Vietnamese could have put on a tape of some of his conversations.

"Of course they wanted me to see the good things," he said. But he was "amazed at their failure to keep me under constant surveillance."

Asked earlier about a charge by John Mitchell, Nixon's former campaign manager, that he had been duped, Clark said: "How does he know I'm duped? Richard Nixon has asked him to say that to distract the American people from the truth."

Clark said he had offered the State Department all the film and tape he brought home with him and will call the State Department as soon as he returns to Washington.

Father Listens

Clark's father, retired Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark, sat at the head table with his wife listening to his son's speech before the ABA's section on individual rights and responsibilities.

The elder Clark told reporters he doesn't think Mitchell "knows him very well." Ramsey is "always very cautious," the justice said. "I don't think he would say anything that couldn't be supported.

The standing room only audience gave him an ovation at the end of the program.

Clark's brief talk dealt with what he said were "things I care about and believe in. My concern is that America is afriad of freedom," he said. "Human dignity is the essential question of our time."

Earlier Richard G. Kleindienst, attorney general in the Nixon administration, addressed the ABA. He said America is "purging its soul of the stain of racism" and cited the civil rights suits brought by the Justice Department.

60-Foot Oak Tree Kills 2 Persons

Knights Ferry, Calif. (AP) — A 60-foot oak tree, uprooted by wind gusts, fell on the tent of a camping party in the Sierra foothills, killing a man and his 10-year-old daughter and injuring three others.

Toulumne County sheriff's deputies said the tree fell Monday night as the group was preparing to eat dinner.

James McMichael, 35, of Oakland, and his daughter, Cynthia Ann, were killed. Mrs. McMichael, 32, was reported injured seriously along with McMichael's sister, Mrs. Donald Wetmore, 37, of San Jose, and her daughter, Elizabeth, 11. Seven other members of the two families were not hurt.

Algeria Asked By Cleaver Not To Give Ransom Back

Paris (UPI) — Black Panther leadaer Eldridge Cleaver has asked Algeria not to give back the $1 million ransom money extorted by five hijackers from Delta Airlines July 31 but to turn the money over to "the Palestine resistance," the left-wing French Liberation Press Agency said Tuesday.

In a communique quoted by the agency, Cleaver said:

"The international section of the Black Panther Party, desirous not to see returned to the hands of the enemy the $1 million expropriated from the oppressor during the hijacking . . . by a group of militant Afro-American revolutionaries, has decided to ask the Algerian authorities to give this sum to the Palestine resistance."

There was no immediate response from Algerian officials. They already ignored earlier demands by Cleaver and the five air pirates who brought the Delta DC8 from Florida to Algiers to give them the money for black revolution.

Meanwhile, a Panther member said in Algiers Tuesday the international section would make a major staement on the struggle of American blacks including skyjackings at a Panther "open house" party Friday.

Pete O'Neal, who took over acting leadership of the section while Cleaver concentrated on setting up an "Afro-American liberation army," said the world press was welcome to attend, as well as "all progressive, revolutionary and peace loving people."

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, P.T.A. notes and club meetings makes good reading in the family section of "Sunday Journal and Star."

Nigeria Bubbling With Oil And Confidence As New Role Forged

By LARRY HEINZERLING

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria is bubbling with oil and national confidence as it sweeps away the debris of civil war and forges a role in African affairs.

"If we don't succeed in Africa, who will?" asks a senior government official, reflecting the mood of "manifest destiny" in this West African nation of 60 million.

Brought to its knees by the civil war with breakaway Biafra, which ended 30 months ago, Nigeria has found its feet and is on the rebound at home and abroad.

With over 1.7 million barrels of oil a day, making Nigeria the eighth largest oil-producing nation, the country expects income to exceed $1½ billion this year.

A backlog of prewar debts has been erased. Stores in Lagos offer imported food and television sets. Flourishing night clubs and block parties are rocking to the subtle rhythms of the "highlife" again.

A construction boom in this capital has new houses and office buildings going up all over town. Foreign investors continue their steady migration to Black Africa's richest market.

Most impressive to foreign observers has been the recovery of the war-ravaged, Ibo-dominated enclave of what was Biafra, now the East Central state.

Firmly Keeps Pledge

Nigeria's soldier-run government, led by dapper Gen. Yakubu "Jack" Gowon, has firmly kept its pledge to avoid reprisals against the energetic Ibo people.

Ruins and bullet-pocked buildings are still visible in towns affected by the war, but once empty markets are thriving, new businesses are opening up. The starving babies of Biafra are no more.

Ibos travel freely throughout the country and flock to Lagos and other commercial centers to reopen old businesses or start new ones and reclaim property abandoned when the war broke out.

Increasingly nationalistic, the government is chipping away at its colonial past and taking a firm stand of leadership in African affairs as it becomes the dominant economic and political power in West Africa.

Nigerians are paying 10 kobos instead of a shilling at the market place as new coins bring in a decimal currency and usher out the old British system of money. The switchover will be completed next year.

Another legacy from Britain was driving on the left side of the road. This was abolished last April, bringing Nigeria into step with neighboring Dahomey, Niger, Chad and Cameroon.

A decree reserves selected businesses, ranging from bakeries to gambling casinos, for Nigerians. There is a 1974 deadline for expatriates to sell such enterprises or close down.

Nigeria is also getting tougher with foreign oil companies, demanding increased participation in exploitation. The government owned National Oil Corp. already holds a 51% participating interest in several joint ventures with foreign companies. The government is negotiating with the Anglo-Dutch Shell-BP consortium, which produces over two-thirds of the nation's petroleum.

Sports Complex

Nigeria is constructing a 50,000-seat stadium and sports complex to host the second all-Africa games in January.

The $18-million cost will be exceeded by preparations under way in Lagos to accommodate an expected 40,000 visitors to a festival of black arts in 1974.

Hundreds of black Americans are passing through West Africa this year, underlining yet another prospect — tourism.

In foreign policy, Nigeria has become increasingly militatnt on colonialism, arms sales to South Africa and continued white rule in Rhodesia.

Although Britain remains Nigeria's main trade partner, a high-level delegation is going to China to thrash out a trade agreement.

Unlike many African leaders who travel frequently to Paris or London to seek advice and aid, Gowon has moved about widely in Africa, making new friends and spreading influence. A recent visit to Togo produced agreement on the formation of an embryonic West African economic community. Chad will soon have phone links with Nigeria. Dahomey recieved a $3 million loan for road construction.

Gowon Joins

Gowon has joined an Organization of African Unity attempt to find a solution to the Middle East crisis.

One problem is relations with French-speaking Africa, which fears Nigeria's economic clout and still looks to Paris for aid and comfort. And potentially dangerous problems to stability remain at home.

There is sharp division between the rich elite in the towns and poverty of the agrarian masses. Corruption infects all levels of government. Army officers and top civil servants flaunt their riches in flashy cars while downtown Lagos is cluttered with beggars.

Despite the public executions of those caught and convicted of armed robberry, and epidemic of crime has yet to be scotched.

One example of the dominant mood in Nigeria is summed up by one diplomat:

"They won the war despite all the criticism from around the world and now they're going to win the peace by themselves too".

Sioux Co. Valuations Hiked 25%

By The Associated Press

The State Board of Equalization Tuesday approved 1972 property tax valuations for Nebraska's 93 counties, ordering a 25% increase in the valuations for Sioux County.

The Sioux County order was the only change made by the board, meaning the five-member board, charged with setting tax rates, again made no attempt at equalization between counties.

Since 1969, the board has not attempted inter-county equalization among counties with differing valuations. The 1969 board decisions were taken to the State Supreme Court and most were overturned.

Total valuations approved Tuesday amounted to more than $16 billion, compared to last year's $15.5 billion total.

The Sioux County action came after the county had cut by 20% the valuation level arrived at in a scientific reappraisal by the Justin Haynes Co.

County officials contended land was not as valuable in their county as in nearby counties becuse of poor growing conditions.

In ordering the 25% increase, the board was told by State Tax Commissioner William Peters the increase was necessary to make up for the money lost by the decrease.

Harvard Boy Shot Fatally By Playmate

Harvard (AP) — A 15-year-old Harvard boy was shot and killed by a playmate while they were playing in a camping trailer here Monday night, Clay County Atty. David J. Master said Authorities said that Leslie Luther, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Luthers, was dead on arrival at Mary Lanning Memorial Hospital in Hastings. They said he had been shot in the heart with a .22 caliber revolver.

Authorities said the playmate, Doug Hendrickson, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hendrickson, apparently accidentally shot the Luther boy. The boys had been engaged in a pillow fight moments before the fatal shot was fired, officials said.

Harvard Police Chief Dallas Nelson said Luther and Ron West, 14, who was visiting from Aurora, were "laying on the one bunk at the end of the camper."

He said Hendrickson was standing at the other end and removed the pistol, normally kept in his father's house, from beneath the seat in his father's camp trailer.

"Hendrickson got it out of the holster and was playing with it when he pulled the hammer back twice and cocked it and fired it and nothing happened," Nelson said. "The third time he did this he had it pointed at the Luther boy and it went off. It struck the Luther boy in the left ventrical of the heart."

Nelson said that West's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don West, returned him to Aurora Monday night where he was treated at a hospital for shock.

Moylan is a 1960 graduate of Creighton University.

Autopsy Planned In Keim's Death

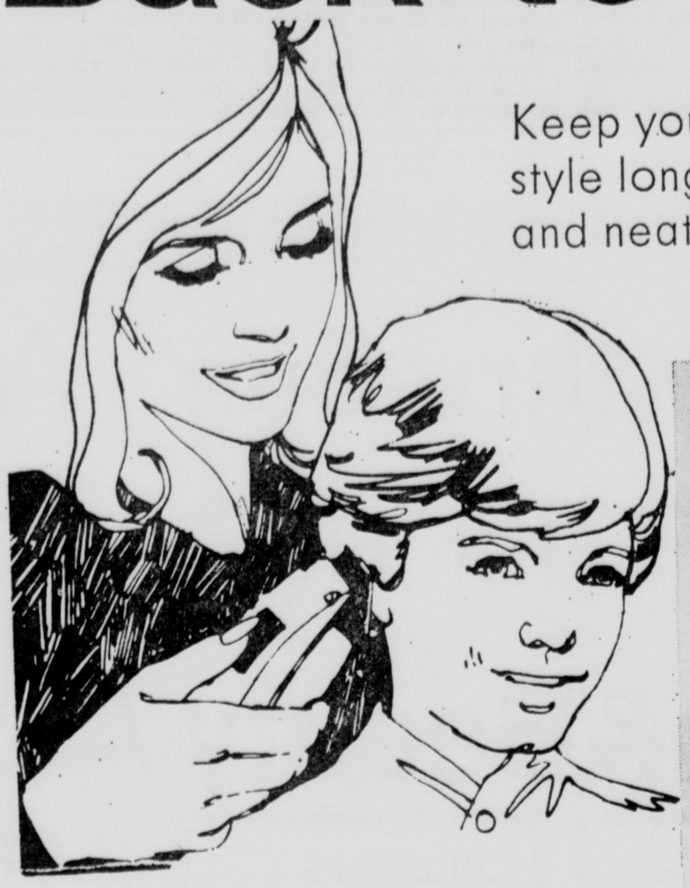

Syracuse (UPI) — An autopsy was to be performed to determine the cause of the death of Ernest Keim of rural Syracuse, who was found dead in his pickup truck about 1 a.m. Tuesday.

Otoe County authorities said Keim had gone to look for a calf in a pasture on his property. He was found with his head between the spokes of the steering wheel of the pickup, which had stalled when one of the front wheels dropped into a deep rut.

TALK

Emulating the theory of that famous walrus we, too, think "the time has come to speak of many things—" But our thoughts aren't too much involved with shoes and ships and sealing wax — Nor do we have any cabbages or kings in mind.

Our 'many things' we speak of this morning has to do with the future.

For one thing, and everyone doubtless everyone is aware of the date — Homecoming at the University of Nebraska is on Oct. 28 — and the football foe, according to our schedule, is Oklahoma State.

But the calendar also has another notation for Oct. 28 — It is a dinner dance — the first of three for the 1972-73 season for the members of the Monday Night Club.

And in case you didn't know — Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hillyer hold the office of president of the Monday Night Club this year, and the new secretary-treasurer chairs are occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Paul Peterson.

We may not have ships to talk about this morning but we do have planes, and one of them is taking Mr. and Mrs. David J. Thomas to Europe today.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will tour Europe and will, of course, attend the Olympic games in Munich.

The travelers also will do some visiting with relatives while in Europe, and the relatives are Mr. Thomas' brothers, Maj. Cornelius Thomas, who is stationed in Weisbaden, Germany, and Lewis Thomas who is representing the U.S. government as an insurance adjustor and who resides in Munich.

Judy Price Honored

With less than two weeks remaining before she assumes the wifely role, Miss Judy Price took time out of her wedding preparations to spend an evening with a group of friends.

The get-together was held on Monday evening, Aug. 14, and took the form of a linen shower for the future bride. Hostesses for the party which took place at Union Loan and Savings included Mrs. John Little and Mrs. Harry Kolb.

conZOOsations

By LINDA OLIG

Just call us No-Name, but for today only. We two adult North American River Otters have been here at the Zoo for about a year now, and we still haven't been named, although we have baptized ourselves time and again in our delightful pool.

We were given to the Zoo by the Don W. Stewart Family Fund, Inc., which also supplied us with the pool which we lend to Oilslick and Parka, the Asian Otters, for their morning swims.

Since we have no names, you may call me Papa for now. And, of course, mama will be called Mama; and baby, Baby. If the addition of a third name confuses you, that is because I failed to mention that we became proud parents of a darling baby on Easter Day.

Mama sure was a good mother, considering that it is quite unusual for a baby otter to be born in captivity — but then that is our only hope for survival. We were plentiful all over North America until the white man arrived, and knew that our durable, pretty fur would have great value on the European market. Since we are known migrants, we soon moved to Canada where our relatives live today, although other otters are found the world over, except in the Arctic colds.

We North American Otters are part of the Weasel family, which usually is considered vicious, solitary, and ill-tempered. To counteract that notion, we otters try to over-compensate for our ill-tempered cousins by being pleasant and fun-loving. In fact, the only time there is a serious vein in our bodies is when we select a mate — because we mate for life and that is very serious business. There is no room for Casanovas in our families.

We are carniverous animals and, in the wilds, our relatives live on eggs and small animals, but their great love is fish — and that's no problem since we are such great swimmers. Here at the Zoo, we eat like kings with patties made of ground horsemeat, liver, carrots, tomatoes, hard boiled eggs, bran, mink developer, cod liver oil, wheat germ, and smelt. Mmmm that sounds good right now!

Our facilities here at the Zoo are just as good as the food. The water moves constantly in our pool, and we also have a ladder to climb, sand to play in, and a house where we can find privacy.

We lead carefree, happy lives, and just love to be in the company of other otters. Both in the Zoo, and in the wilds, we otters like to make up games, such as tag and follow the leader. We are highly intelligent animals and even find objects to use as toys. For example, we can spend hours piling stones just to knock them down and rebuild the mountain. We play keep-away with sticks and then run off, pushing the sticks with our noses. Our relatives in the wilds also build slides of mud and snow similar to our great slide here.

I mentioned that Mamma was a good mother, but she sure acted odd after the baby was born. I understood her actions since we males have little paternal instincts and know that we just can't be around the babies. We often are dangerous to the little ones — we might play too rough or be jealous of them.

After Baby arrived, my wife drove me out of the house, so I just left them alone for about the first month or so. When Baby was about five weeks old, she brought him out in the sand and then proceeded to give him his first swimming lesson. Of course, I wasn't even allowed to watch, but I have heard that she took him by the scruff of the neck and held him under water for 30 seconds. This may sound cruel, but baby otters have to be taught to swim — they aren't naturals. Well, she took him out for lessons every night, and held him under for longer and longer times. Then she put him on her back and swam around. When he fell off, she would swim under him to get him back on for another ride. Although Baby soon became a great swimmer, to this day she stays close to him and looks out for his safety.

After about two months, Mama finally introduced me to our offspring and we became one big happy family. We probably will have another baby next spring, and my wife has taken every precaution to be sure that there will be another little one. You see, we use a method called delayed implantation — the female holds the sperm in her body and she activates it when she wants — usually when the older baby is about six or nine months old. She does this just in case she loses her mate. This is a great help in perpetuating our endangered species, I might add.

Dining with Wine

The month of August make one realize that the summer is about over and it is time to start making plans for the coming fall and winter months. Parents are taking advantage of late summer sales to outfit their children for the next school term. Merchants generally take this month to hold sales and clean out merchandise they don't care to hold over for the next season; and offer real bargains.

Wine merchants also use the month of August as a clearance month and present the wine buyer with a rare opportunity to stock up at bargain prices.

It is during the month of August that wine merchants, traditionally, begin making room for new deliveries. Wine futures and direct import shipments are usually scheduled for delivery in time for the fall market which starts about Labor Day. This is the best time for wine shopping—either for daily use or for starting a wine cellar. The wine shopper may browse thru his favorite wine shop and find wines to complement any affair he plans at astoundingly low prices. This is especially true of the younger wines such as Beaujolais, Rose' and some Spanish and Chilean wines. Some of these wines may be purchased at a fraction of their regular price. This will not hold true of the very great Classic Estate Bottled Wines which are in critically short supply but for every-day wine enjoyment the lesser wines are extremely good values and are within the reach of even the most modest budget.

The person who has been planning a wine cellar and has hesitated because he felt he would have to spend several thousand dollars to do so need hesitate no longer. By shopping now he would be surprised how many bottles of fine wine he could assemble for a small fraction of this amount. In fact, a prudent shopper at this time of the year could select a surprising number of bottles of the younger wines for less than one hundred dollars; and using this selection of wines as a nucleus could add a Classic wine bottle at a time and before he realized it could have a cellar and collection of wines he could be proud of. All it takes is the than the month of August.

A wine buyer could purchase the following wines for about one hundred dollars and have a fine wine for any occasion or for any meal he could serve.

4 btls Beringer Bros. Fino Cocktail Sherry
4 btls Rose' D' Anjow-A. Gouin 1970
4 btls Beaujolais Chateau Boisfranc 1970
4 btls Beaujolais-Brouilly Chateau Nervers 1970
4 btls Caves D'Arency Petit Chalis 1970
4 btls P. Beauville de Beauville Graves 1969
4 btls Sanzeno Bardalino 1970
4 btls A. Lalande St. Emilion 1967
4 btls Chateau Timberlay 1966
2 btls Plaza Vieja 1903 Rare Cream Sherry

From appetizer to dessert one could serve these wines with pride to the most sophisticated wine drinker. Anyone who can afford food can afford these wines. August is the month for bargains in wine.

Mollie Parnis Says

"Fashionwise, women have gone through a lot in the past few years. They have slogged their way through the youth kick, the costume craze and the ethnic maze.

"It was confusing, but in the end, the natural good taste that I believe lives deep down in every woman, asserted itself and once again they know what they want and why and when they want to wear it.

"First of all, the woman who wants to be well dressed today has rediscovered quality, beauty and grace. She knows the difference between a long range fashion and a fad.

"Take pants for instance. No one considers pants a fad anymore. They belong in every wardrobe, for certain uses, and most women have been stockpiling good-looking pants. However, I think the woman in search of something new this fall will be much more intrigued with what a very pretty, very elegant dress can do for her life and her age. The fall dresses have many identities, many shapes and many moods of color, each one meant to increase the identity, the individually, of the woman who wears it. But all dresses have this in common; they are softly flattering to the body, and very, very feminine. Even a sweater is not made to look sporty except when it is actually a sports sweater. The dressy look has replaced the sportive look, even in sportswear.

"I believe an important alternative to pants for evening will be the long slender dinner suit, often in wool.

"Last season proved that the long evening dress is here to stay. Yet it is a very safe bet that there will be more short cocktail dresses worn next fall and winter than for many years. Women seem to love them again, and so do I."

This cider press was used in California about 1850. It was handmade of oak and iron hardware by a rancher near Mission San Gabriel, Calif. It is three feet wide and four feet high.

(Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

The soda pop of our ancestors was cider that was fermented to produce bubbles and tang. Every pioneer home planted apple trees. The supply of apple trees in America was plantiful by the mid 19th century. Cider was an everyday drink in the fields or at home. Barrels of it were mentioned in wills. The cider was considered as important as the household furniture.

Making cider was a complex task. The apples were first crushed in a homemade hand press. They were put on a slatted wooden rack with straw. When the wooden screw pressed down on the mass, the juice was forced out and the pulp remained on the rack. This pulp or "pomace" was pressed several times. The juice was then stored in wooden barrels to ferment. After the power press came into use, the apples were pressed in bags containing about 10 bushels.

The isolated rural family made small batches of cider in homemade presses of wood. The family near a waterpowered press could take the apples to be pressed quickly in large batches.

Q. I just bought what a dealer called a "trammel." She said it was decorative and made to hold pots. Could you give me any further information?

A. A trammel is an adjustable pot hook used for fireplace cooking. It had several settings. A pot could be hung at the end of the hook to the desired distance from the fire. The trammel was hooked to other metal bars that could swing over the fire.

Opening lead—two of clubs.

One of declarer's most important chores is to manufacture tricks that don't exist naturally.

Consider this deal where in the natural course of events South learns all he needs to know to bring off a successful coup.

West leads a club, won with the queen, and East returns the jack of diamonds. Declarer takes the ace, leads the jack of spades and loses the finesse to the queen.

Back comes another diamond, won by the king, and declarer leads a low trump to West's ace, playing dummy's king on it. West leads a third diamond and the following position arises after South leads a third trump and cashes his last diamond:

Declarer, who has a right to assume from the play to the first trick that West led from four clubs to the jack, now leads the ten of spades.

1. If West discards a heart, dummy does likewise, thus squeezing East who cannot spare a heart and therefore discards a club. Declarer plays a heart to the king, ruffs the ten of clubs, felling East's ace, and in that way makes the rest of the tricks.

2. If West discards a club, dummy and East each discard a heart. But when declarer now crosses to dummy and leads the king of clubs, he simultaneously traps East's ace and West's jack, and in that way scores the rest of the tricks.

CHIT-CHAT with Roxi

Dear Roxi:

I know this may sound weird but I don't care about voting in the election this year. I just turned 18 and all my friends are still 17 and ineligible to vote. They all say they envy me, Why? My vote won't make any difference anyway so why do they envy me?

A. They envy you because they want to vote and can't. You have indicated you don't care about voting. If you care anything about them you will vote because your vote will make a difference in their future as well as your own. The thing that is bothering you is the fact that you aren't the same as they are because you can vote and they can't. It makes you feel out of place. Well, not voting will too, especially if the person you are not supporting is elected. Get out and vote. It is your duty as a citizen and should be considered a privilege at age 18 to be able to vote.

Dear Roxi:

Is there anything wrong with voicing my opinion? My father says that big mouths and small minds are what's wrong with this world. So now I'm supposed to shut up even if I don't agree with something. Do you call this fair?

A. No, but your father is partly right. The people who do voice their opinions hastily often regret what they have said later. It is those who think first and speak later that make it because they have used a very easily obtainable trait—namely common sense.

Dear Roxi:

My problem is very simple. How do you get along with people who utterly drive you up the wall with their conceit? I've tried ignoring but it is getting harder by the day. What can I do?

A. Do exactly what you are doing. Ignore. Nothing stops people like that faster than losing the attention that they crave.

Dear Roxi:

School will be coming up in a few weeks and I just realized I have a terible problem. I have two good friends both of whom want me to share a locker with them. What am I going to do? I don't want to lose them for friends, but I am going to one way or another. Help!

A. Maybe you could reach a compromise with them. You could share a locker one semester with one of them and share a locker another semester with the other one.

To do it right doesn't mean it will cost more. See the professionals...

Poppy Shop Is Ready For Guests

Everyone knows that guests deserve nothing but the best. So, no matter what the occasion may be the arrival of guests means that there has been considerable preparation before opening the door to friendly faces.

Actually, the Poppy Shop at the Gateway Nebraska Clothing didn't need too much pretty-ing up—it is quite attractive as it is. But Miss Nancy McCune wasn't taking any chances — She spent Tuesday getting everything in readiness for the special guests the Poppy Shop is entertaiing today.

It seems that the Nebraska Clothing Co., wants its good feminine Omaha customers to know what is going on at the company's brand new Gateway store, and to accomplish its aim it invited a group of the Omaha store's best customers to come to Lincoln to visit the Poppy Shop.

Nebraska Clothing Co., management chartered a sizeable bus—and arranged to have luncheon served aboard during the trip from Omaha.

In the picture we find Miss McCune is taking a final look at the frocks, and all of the other fashionable apparel which the Omaha guests will be seeing.

Council To Meet

With all of its members going in every direction during the summer months, it comes as no surprise that the Lincoln Round and Square Dance Council often has difficulty in scheduling meetings, even to discuss pertinent matters. And the task is difficult despite the fact that one of the affiliate clubs sponsors a council dance each week.

In spite of the many difficulties, however, the council has called a special meeting which will take place at the UAA Building, at 13th and High Sts., on Thursday evening, Aug. 17. The members will be called to order at 8 o'clock.

And the council dances will continue on Saturday evening, Aug. 19, when the Swing 'Em In Gingham Club will host the weekly event.

The promenading and do-se-doing will take place at the pavilion at Antelope Park, begining at 9 o'clock.

Abby: any one of a number of choices is your's to make

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not seem important to some people, but it is a threat to my marriage.

Howard and I have been married for two years. We were happy at first, living in a small apartment.

I am an average housekeeper and must do all my housecleaning and laundry on Saturdays because I work during the week.

Howard wants me to work as we have no children and the money helps a lot, but lately he has become demanding about my housekeeping.

We have terrible fights about it almost every night. Abby, I just can't help it. When I get home after work I have all I can do to get supper, and I am just too tired to start doing housework! And we both leave for work at 7:30 a.m. and I certainly can't do anything in the morning.

I love Howard and don't want to lose him, but he has threatened to walk out if I don't improve my housekeeping. Please help me.

DESPERATE IN THE BRONX

DEAR DES: You have the following options:

1. Insist that Howard pitch in and help you. He lives there, too.

2. Straighten up after yourself in the morning and you'll have a less of a mess at night. Tidy up the place after dinner if it kills you.

3. Quit your job become a full-time housekeeper, and live on Howard's salary.

4. Hire some help and tighten your belts.

5. Continue as you are and risk a walkout.

DEAR ABBY: Now that the women are becoming so aggressive even to the point of asking strange men to dance with them, new problems have developed.

I have taken my wife to a club where couples dance, and had strange women approach me with, "Care to dance?"

Not knowing what else to do, I get up and dance. Later my wife gives me "what for" for leaving her to sit alone while I dance with a woman I've never seen before. But what else can I do? I hate to hurt a strange woman's feelings.

DANCING WITH TEARS IN MY EYES

DEAR DANCING: You can screw up the courage to say, "Thank you, but I'd rather not leave my lady alone." And don't worry about hurting a strange woman's feelings. Women who ask men to dance have pretty tough hides.

Marriages Are Solemnized

MISS SUSAN HERRMANN

This morning, Mr. and Mrs. Calmar Herrmann of Osceola are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan Marie Herrmann to Ronnie Rex Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Graham of Silver Creek.

An October wedding is planned.

Miss Herrmann was graduated from Joseph's College of Beauty, and presently is employed by Arloa's Town House in Osceola.

Mr. Graham completed a tour of duty with the U.S. Army, and he now is employed as an electrician with Behlen Mfg. Co.

At a 3 o'clock ceremony which took place on Sunday afternoon, July 23, the marriage of Miss Deborah Gale Yaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yaw of Bend, Ore., to James Edward Reckling of Bend, Ore., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reckling of Crete, was solemnized at the First United Methodist Church in Bend.

Miss Karen Sue Wilder of Bend attended the bride as the maid of honor; and the foursome of bridesmaids included Miss Janis Dyer of Bend, Miss Glenda Yates of Springfield, Ore., Miss Julie Lamborn of Redmond, Ore., and Miss Dorothy Young of Canyonville, Ore.

Larry Eberspacher of Crete served Mr. Reckling as best man, and Dean Drevo and Don Strehle, both of Crete, were groomsmen.

The gown chosen by the bride for her wedding was fashioned of Chantilly lace over satin. The bodice featured a high neckline edged with a narrow band of satin, and wrist-length lantern sleeves.

On Saturday evening, Aug. 5, the marriage of Miss Rosemary Bowers, daughter of Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. William H. Bowers of Lincoln, to Hal Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal C. Smith of Hastings, was solemnized at the St. Mark's Pro-Cathedral in Hastings.

Mrs. William T. M. Bowers was the honor attendant, and the threesome of bridesmaids included Miss Lori Smith, Miss Gay Gibson of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Diane Hamilton of Lincoln. Mrs. Robert Gratopp of Lincoln and Mrs. Ralph Purcello of Omaha were bridesmatrons.

Gene Smith served his brother as best man; and the groomsmen included Capt. William T. M. Bowers of Omaha, John McMillan of Phoenix, Ariz., John Henry of Lincoln, Bill Hempke of Grand Island and John Glass of Hastings.

The bride appeared in a gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace over aqua satin designed in the princess mode.

TOWN and COUNTRY

Compliments of the weather man, Town and Country residents have been experiencing their first real taste of summer during the past several days. Fortunately however, the thermometer readings of 90 degrees and above are not quite so hard to take due to two factors — air conditioning and the promise that autumn is not too far off.

Despite the soaring mercury, Town and Country has been as busy as usual. Vacationers are returning after pursuing a variety of "away-from-home" activities including sightseeing, visiting with friends and family members, fishing, camping and so on, ad infinitum. In addition, we've also heard about a number of houseguests who have been entertained during the very recent past; and we're certain there are still some plans in the works for late-summer trips which will have to be squeezed into busy calendars before school bells ring once again.

Waverly

Out-of state visitors are still very much in evidence in the various Town and country communities as the summer enters its closing weeks, and included among those who have entertained guests during the recent past are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reiner.

Arriving in Waverly on Friday, Aug. 4, from her home in Sheridan, Wyo., was Mrs. Reiner's sister, Mrs. Forrest Auchmuty.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Reiner and Mrs. Auchmuty spent the day in Red Oak, Iowa where they enjoyed visiting with a number of famfily members. Before Mrs. Auchmuty returned home on Tuesday, she and the Reiners spent a bit of time calling on relatives in Omaha.

The proverbial red carpet was also put to good use at another Waverly home the weekend before last when Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carlson and children welcomed family members who arrived for a brief visit. Spending Saturday, Aug. 5, with the Carlsons were Mr. Carlson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Carlson, who make their home in Glenwood, Iowa.

Western Nebraska has become an increasingly popular vacation spot for those who enjoy pursuing outdoor activities and taking in scenery that is quite different from that in the eastern part of the state.

Recently returning from a one and one-half week sojourn in western Nebraska were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nansel and children, Lana, Loren, Toby, Rory and Colleen. The Nansel family departed on Saturday, July 29, and a portion of their stay was spent at Rimrock Ranch north of Crawford. Mrs. Nansel tells us that there were many interesting things to do — horseback riding, fishing and hiking, for example — and they also found time to pay a visit to Ft. Robinson.

They also spent some time in Chadron before returning home; and they enjoyed side trips to Casper, Wyo. and the Black Hills in South Dakota.

Davey

Wedding anniversaries are always special occasions — but the 25th and 50th such events seem to call for a little extra in the way of celebrating.

Such was the case for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Donnell who observed their 25th anniversary last weekend, and who were the guests of honor at a surprise party which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Loofe on Sunday evening, Aug. 13.

A number of Davey couples were in attendance at the event, and during the evening, they presented Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell with a money tree.

Bennet

The Bennet Builders will hold another of their get-togethers for community residents over the age of 65 on Wednesday evening, Aug. 16. The festivities will take place at the Legion Hall.

On Sunday, Aug. 16, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burt were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haase. The Haases and their guests enjoyed an evening of pinochle.

Currently enjoying a summer vacation are the Rev. George Roquet of the Bennet Community Church, Mrs. Roquet and their sons. We understand that the Roquet family are visiting in Spirit Lake, Iowa.

Filling in for Rev. Roquet during last Sunday morning's services was the Rev. Edward Jeambey who makes his home in Lincoln, but who is quite well known to Bennet residents.

Recently taking up residence at the Ma Mer Apartments in Bennet were Mr. and Mrs. Gale Holweger, who formerly resided in Lincoln; and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jensen.

We should also mention the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Jensen, who were married on Friday, Aug. 4, returned to Bennet last Thursday following a honeymoon trip to Colorado. Mrs. Jensen is the former Miss Cathy Hennings.

Reunion Is Planned

The 30th reunion of the Cortland High School class of '42 will be held on Saturday evening, Aug. 19, at the Legionnaire Club in Lincoln. The dinner will begin at 8 o'clock.

Thirteen of the 20 class members and their spouses will attend the event.

Exon Doesn't Foresee Closing Beatrice Home

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon said Tuesday in the wake of two conflicting reports on the Beatrice State Home that he does not foresee any wholesale closing of that institution.

"While we approve of moving the residents (to local settings) when and where possible, we want to be assured of equal or better treatment at the local facilities."

The governor called the Beatrice State Home "far better than most" institutions for the retarded, citing such recent improvements as the recreation center. But, he added, that the state cannot rest on its laurels.

Exon said he woud study both reports before making any further comments.

Tuesday's report was made by the Beatrice State Home Association and opposed the Nebraska Association for Retarded Children's earlier recommendation urging a massive community placement program of residents at the home.

"After reviewing the NebARC Human and Legal Rights Committee report which called for the eventual closing of the institution, the home association executive board stated that they do not accept the recommendations (offered by NebARC.)

"This parent association feels very strongly . . . that no mass removal of persons should take place," the report stated.

The Beatrice State Home Association forwarded some recommendations of its own for Exon's consideration:

—air-conditioning of all living units at the home.

—additional health personnel.

—construction of residential living areas for groups of less than 30 people.

—a special facility for those who are both mentally ill and retarded.

The home association also urged establishing an "unbiased" task force to study all programs and services offered by the institution and that community placements be based on the individual resident's needs. The group further recommended an all-faiths chapel be constructed.

The proposal by NebARC that an independent commission be created to oversee releases and the general operations of all such institutions would be "an erroneous delegation of authority," the home association report said.

Referring to NebARC lawsuit threats, "the Beatrice parent group said that improvement of conditions at the Beatrice State Home would be best accomplished through the legislative and executive branches.

Stock Mart Falls Off High Perch

New York (AP) — The stock market fell off its high perch Tuesday, but not very far. Trading activity was fairly active in the morning, less active in the afternoon.

A depressing factor in the day's business was the weakness of auto stocks, after it became known the Nixon administration was trying to get several major auto makers to give up their plans for price increases on 1973 models.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had spurted 11.29 points on Friday and another 9.33 points Monday, closed at 969.97, down 3.54.

Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange finished ahead of gaining stocks, 770 to 674.

The automobile news made investors nervous, according to the analysts, because there was the thought such a price rollback move might be made elsewhere.

News that presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger would go to South Vietnam Wednesday, for "a general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem," trimmed some of the price declines in midsession, but the effect was brief.

In the auto sector General Motors closed at 76¾, off ⅞, after dipping as much as 1⅝. Chrysler was down ⅝ to 31¼. Ford lost ½ to 66⅛ and American Motors, the Big Board's fourth most active stock, was off ⅛ to 10¼.

The Big Board's most active issue was Gulf Oil, up ⅜ to 24⅜. Gulf nudged Royal Dutch Petroleum into second place in the final hour. There were two blocks of Royal Dutch, of 107,000 and 65,700 shares, both at 38¾, after which the stock closed at 39, down ⅜.

Some of the blue chip issues had their prices trimmed. DuPont was off 1 to 182¼ and Eastman Kodak fell 2⅞ to 138⅛. Among the glamour items, Polaroid lost 3⅜ to 117⅝.

Fat Cattle Prices Slip At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — A lower turn in dressed beef prices kept fat cattle trading under pressure Tuesday.

Trading at Omaha was fairly slow early before gaining some momentum on later rounds as fed steers turned steady to 25 lower and heifers mostly 25 cents lower.

Choice to prime 1,938-1,232 lb fed steers grouped 36.60-37.00, load 1,137 lb reputation Iowa beeves at the 37.00 figure. Most choice sold upward from 35.25.

Top-flight 950-1,000 lb heifers earned 35.50-35.75, choice down to 34.25.

Scattering good and choice fleshy 925-1,075 lb steers went out on feeder account at 34.75-35.75.

Meanwhile the hog market continued to perk along a higher path, backed up by reduced volume and advancing wholesale pork values. Butcher hogs sold fully 25 cents higher in fairly active bargaining. Sows were 25 to 50 cents, instances 75 cents higher, full advance on light weights.

Most 190-240 lb barrows and gilts here drew 29.50-30.00, one load 1-2s scaling 213 lb topping at 30.25. Sows grouped 25.00-26.25, some upward to 7 scaling under 350 lb.

Fat lambs also advanced on the heels of Monday's upturn. Values were 25 to 50 cents higher as supplies continued light. Best on offering choice and prime No. 2 skins 33.50. Other fats 33.00 and down.

The Telephone Rebuttal

Showing great speed for them, it took the post office less than 24 hours to get a reply to us on the telephone crisis.

And as one might have guessed, the first rebuttal came from a woman employee of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company, Hastings Division, Dorothy Oliver.

"Not being a regular reader of your column, I was not aware of your sarcastic sense of humor," she writes. "However, people who do read your comments have told me, 'If he should print your letter, he will have to have the last word.' So be it!

"Your quarrel with the telephone company is yours and I have no intention of becoming involved, however I take a very strong exception to the following paragraph from your article:

" 'That's another thing about telephone companies — you never get to talk to a man who you can really tell what you think; it seems all they got working at the phone companies are women.'

"Evidently you have never heard of the Equal Opportunity Act which not only guarantees women equal rights and pay for equal work, but also the reverse equal work for equal rights and pay. This would include women dealing with irate customers; so you would have every right to really tell a woman what you think — if as you say 'it seems all they got working at the phone companies are women.'

"It would have been a very simple matter for you to check, and if you had, you would know there is not ONE woman employed in a supervisory or management position in the Hastings Division or all the way to the upper echelon in Lincoln of the commercial or plant departments of LT&T.

"If your problem was as serious or critical as you stated, it would seem to me you would have requested to speak to someone in charge, and then you would have had to speak to a man and you could have told him what you really thought and your problem would have been solved.

"As I said before your quarrel with the telephone company is yours and not mine, but please do not drag women into the issue—we already have enough real battles to be fought."

Dear Dorothy — I'm glad you stressed twice that you didn't want to get involved in the quarrel because I could never have guessed that by your writing the letter. I don't believe in that Equal Opportunity Act and I did request specifically to speak to a man in charge, but always wound up with another feminine voice on the phone. I guess there's something about my small town upbringing that makes me feel uncomfortable saying some things to a woman that I could say to a man. Happy to oblige your friends' confidence that I would have the last word.

Can't Win Derby With Donkey

Donald Brantz of Omaha, who must be sitting on some sort of burr, writes, "I write this the night before the College All-Star Game at Soldier Field.

"The College All-Stars have as much chance against the Dallas Cowboys as the Crimson Tide had against Nebraska last January. Enclosed is a copy of the Birmingham News of last Dec. 31 whose sports editor, Alf Van Hoose, stated, 'College football and high school football, and don't you ever bet it isn't true, is a coach's game. The head coach is the most valuable man in the game setup. What'll decide this game as is most blue-ribbon confrontations is the preparation, discipline, dedication and characteristics instilled into players long before a kickoff.'

"If what he says is true then why the big recruiting battle every year for the prime talent graduating from high schools throughout the land? Give me the talent first and the coach will soon become the greatest coach that ever lived. But without that talent the greatest coach in the world will never become the winningest coach of the year.

"If I didn't think you had the guts to print this, I wouldn't waste a stamp."

Dear Donald — Can't understand why you thought it would take any guts to print your letter, but I think you're overlooking the fact that recruiting is a part of being a coach. Every coach we've ever known would agree that you've got to have the so-called horses. It's like the feller said, "You can't win the Kentucky Derby with a donkey." Well, that's not exactly what he said, but it's verbatim except for the last word.

Stadium Addition Ticket Policy

Arthur Truesdell of Fremont questions the Nebraska Athletic Department's ticket policy regarding the seats in the latest stadium addition.

"I have been trying for seven years to get season tickets, but last year I couldn't even get tickets to a single home game," he writes. "A guy where I work had three season tickets and was billed for two more. Although I applied for tickets Jan. 1, I have not heard a word."

Dear Arthur — Nebraska ticket manager Jim Pittenger says the following priorities were set up for distribution of new tickets in the south end of Memorial Stadium: (1) students, (2) faculty and university staff members, (3) contributors, with a limit of four in this category, and (4) by date order was received. "It appears at this time that no one whose order was received after Jan. 1 will get tickets unless he falls into the first three priorities," Pittenger explains, "And even some of those received on Jan. 1 won't get them because we had more than 5,000 orders by that date."

Fischer, Spassky Draw After Both Blunder

Reykjavik UPI) — Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky traded blunders Tuesday night in the 14th game of the World Chess Championship and then quickly agreed to a draw after the 40th move.

Fischer, who had been denied advance money for the match and threatened with a million dollar lawsuit, nearly lost the match on an error on the 20th move but laid a simple trap for the Russian world champion who fell for it.

Fischer retained a full three-point lead in the $250,000 match, taking an 8.5 to 5.5 point advantage. The 15th game is scheduled for Thursday.

Both players completed their 39th and 40th moves within seconds. Then Spassky stretched out his hand and Fischer grabbed it, accepting the draw. Scattered applause from a record 1,800 fans, including the Soviet ambassador and mayor of Reykjavik, greeted them.

Fiscner, who opened with his Queen's Bishop pawn and then made a protest to arbiter Lothar Schmid that the ligthing was not bright enough, blundered on the 20th move by bringing his Bishop back to his Bishop four square instead of the Queen four square.

Russian grandmasters jumped up from their seats and began laughing and joking in the corridors. But their elation was short-lived.

Spassky left a pawn open for the taking on the 27th, falling into a trap one Russian second said he saw coming "five moves back." The lost pawn evened the game again and U.S. Grandmaster Larry Evenas said the two might just as well "start all over again."

FUTURITY TO FUNNY NICKEL

ON WAY TO WIN . . . Funny Nickel leads field into homestretch.

Stewards Rule Against Pierce

. . . FIFTH WIN POSTED

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Funny Nickel keeps winning and winning, but he received his biggest scare from the objection sign in Tuesday's State Fair Futurity at the State Fairgrounds.

After scoring a virtual wire-to-wire two-length decision over Gem D. H. in the 6-furlong jaunt for eight 2-year-old Nebraska-breds, C. W. Pierce, Gem D. H.'s trainer, filed an objection. The alleged interference occurred on the far turn entering the backstretch.

"I had to take him (Gem D. H.) back out of there at the turn," said jockey Randall Meier, "Then I had to go on the outside the rest of the way — I believe I could have won."

The stewards disagreed and Funny Nickel recorded his fifth triumph in nine starts.

Although trainer Louis Brandt said he was concerned over no particular foe, he added that nothing is a certainty in horse racing.

"You never know — there's always something that could beat him," he said. "He's been running real well now."

Brandt said he instructed jockey Fred Ecoffey to take the speedy colt to the front immediately if possible. Ecoffey broke second behind Gem D. H. and then started to increase his lead to two lengths down the backstretch and to four lengths entering the stretch.

After soon faltering to fifth, Gem D. H. rallied to third down the backstretch and closed to second entering the stretch. Prize Wagon, who finished third behind Funny Nickel in the Kernel Stakes, finished 1¾ lengths behind Gem D. H. for third.

While Funny Nickel is a possible entrant in next Wednesday's Freshman Stakes, Brandt said he would be taken to the farm after the Lincoln meeting and would not race again this year.

The triumph in the richest ($6,100 Lincoln Futurity provided owner Frank Sillik of Omaha with $3,355 and boosted his 1972 earnings to $25,293. As the overwhelming favorite of the 4,115 patrons, he returned a paltry $2.80, $2.60 and $2.40.

Gem D.H., in earning $1,220 for owner M. S. Huff of Steinauer, paid $4.60 and $3.40. Prize Wagon returned $732 for M. A. and R. W. Cole of Fairbury and paid $3.60.

White Sox Narrow Gap On A's

. . . YANKEES FALL TWO GAMES BEHIND BALTIMORE

By The Associated Press

The Chicago White Sox continued their amazing success at home, edging the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1 Tuesday night and moved to within one game of idle first-place Oakland in the American League's West Division race.

The White Sox, in raising their home record to 43-14, received four-hit pitching from Tom Bradley and Terry Forster, and scored the runs needed in the fourth inning on Mike Andrews' homer, a walk to Dick Allen, a stolen base, a wild throw and Rick Reichardt's single.

In the AL East, the third-place New York Yankees dropped two games behind frontrunning idle Baltimore, losing to Kansas City 7-6.

Elsewhere in the AL, Boston blanked Texas 3-0 and Cleveland defeated California 4-3 in 10 innings.

In the National League, Cincinnati increased its West lead to 6½ games over Houston, stopping Philadelphia 3-0 while the Astros were losing to Montreal 3-2 in 10 innings.

The New York Mets topped Atlanta 5-0, and San Diego trounced St. Louis 7-1.

Kansas City tied the Yankees 6-6 on Steve Hovley's two-run single in the bottom of the ninth, then won the game on Lou Piniella's RBI single. Earlier, Paul Schaal of the Royals and Felipe Alou of the Yanks hit three-run homers and New York's Bobby Murcer hit a two-run triple in the top of the ninth.

Boston rookie John Curtis checked Texas on three singles and Reggie Smith drove in all three Red Sox runs with a pair of homers.

Frank Duffy's bases-loaded single with two out in the bottom of the 10th climaxed a tworun rally that carried Cleveland past California. Bob Oliver knocked in all three Angel runs with a single and two doubles.

on Gullett pitched eight innings of scoreless four-hit relief for Cincinnati after replacing injured Wayne Simpson in Cincinnati's victory over Philadelphia.

Mike Jorgensen's run-scoring single in the 10th broke a tie and gave Montreal its triumph over Houston. Reliever Mike Marshall won his 12th game in 15 decisions for the Expos.

Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw combined for a fivehitter and Ed Kranepool and Tommie Agee slugged home runs for the Mets against Atlanta.

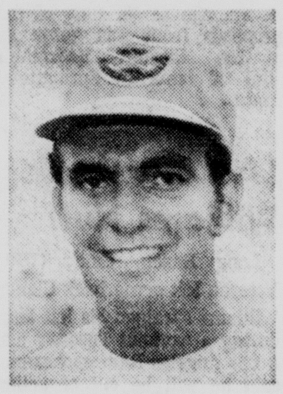

Mike Caldwell pitched a sixhitter and Fred Kendall smashed a two-run homer for San Diego against St. Louis.

Minnesita scored twice in the top of the 13th inning to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 7-6.

Charlie Borner

Falcons Prepare For Pittsburgh

Greenville, S.C. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons worked out for two hours Tuesday in preparation for their preseason National Football League contest against the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday in Atlanta.

Coach Norm Van Brocklin said, "It was a good workout although it was the hottest day of the year here." Temperatures were in the 90s.

Second-year man Mike Lewis of Arkansas AM&N was right defensive tackle in the practice devoted primarily to defense, and Van Broklin indicated Lewis would start against the Steelers in place of last year's regular, Glen Condren.

The Falcons are expecting a sellout of 56,000 for the Pittsburgh game.

Steelers Club Hit By Virus

Latrobe, Pa. (AP) — A virus bug has hit 24 Pittsburgh Steeler players and six coaches, including head coach Chuck Noll.

It's serious enough that all those suffering from the cold-like symptoms, including loss of energy, are under the care of team physician John Best, but it wasn't serious enough to force any of them from practicing Tuesday.

There are a total of 63 players and nine coaches in camp.

Johnson and his assistant, Fred Northup of Grand Island Central Catholic, held two workouts Tuesday, mostly devoted on the half court offense.

An afternoon session was aimed mostly at defense, with Johnson saying he hoped to polish down some fundamentals.

Nastase Posts Triumph In Canadian Net Open

. . . KODES, PANATTA EARN WINS

TORONTO (AP) — Top-seeded Ilie Nastase ran off four straight points in a third-set tiebreaker to defeat Frew McMillan of South Africa 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 Tuesday in the Canadian Open Tennis Championships.

McMillan, who hits just about everything in a two-handed style, came to the net often and shovelled passing shots by the Romanian to nearly knock him out of the $72,600 tournament in the first round.

"You never know what he's going to do when he hits with two hands," said Nastase.

McMillan had difficulty holding service in the final set, but the South African made blazing baseline shots in the 12th game to force the best-of-nine tiebreaker.

Eighth seeded Pierre Barthes of France withdrew from the tournament because of a pulled groin muscle and left fifth-seeded Bob Hewitt of South Africa as the only seed in the top half of the draw going into thirdround play.

Hewitt, who won the U.S. Clay Courts singles title last week in Indianapolis and a share of the doubles crown, advanced by beating John Paish, ranked fourth in England, 6-1, 6-4.

In other games, fourth-seeded Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia defeated Jeff Simpson of New Zealand 6-3, 6-0, and seventhseeded Andriano Panatta of Italy advanced with a 6-2, 6-1 victory over Brian Gottfried of St. Ann, Mo.

Second-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain also withdrew and third-seeded Andres Gimeno of Spain was beaten on Monday.

In first-round results Tuesday, Patricio Cornejo of Chile beat Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 and Charles Owens of Tuscaloosa, Ala., beat Japan's Toshiro Sakai 6-3, 6-2.

In the second round, Dick Stockton of Port Washington, N.Y., defeated Antonio Munoz of Spain 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, while Roscoe Tanner of Chattanooga, Tenn., beat Chilean Jaime Pinto-Bravo 6-0, 2-6, 7-6, and Zan Guerry of Chattanooga, Tenn., ousted Paul Gerkin of Norwalk, Conn., 6-4, 7-5.

Linda Tuero, the No. 4 seed from Metairie, La., advanced to the third round in women's singles with a 6-0, 6-0 decision over Anna Maria Pinto-Bravo of Chile. Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., was beaten in another second-round match, bowing 6-2, 6-2 to Natalie Fuchs of France.

Tennessee State Integrated

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Russ Wingo of Nashville, has become the first white high school player to accept a basketball grant-in-aid with Tennessee State University.

"Believe it or not, I didn't take Tennessee State as a last resort," said Wingo, a 6-foot-1 guard and Honorable Mention selection on The Associated Press all-state team.

"I talked to several other coaches and even visited a couple of major colleges, but this is where I want to go to school," he said.

"You couldn't ask for a better basketball program anywhere or a better coach," Wingo said. "I've been considering the offer since the first of July and, although it's been six weeks, I think I've known all along where I was going."

He said he had been playing with TSU cagers for the past two summers at the campus.

He met players that way and caught the attention of Tiger Coach Ed Martin.

"I know he thought I was kidding when I first asked him if he was interested," Martin said. "But, he seemed to fit in so well and I didn't run up on many unsigned boys like him. I'm just thrilled he took me up on the offer. He'll help us.

TSU, which has an enrollment of apprximately 4,500, finished No. 1 in last season's final AP Small College basketball poll. The Tigers were third in their national tourney.

TSU is under a federal court order calling for "white presence" on the campus this fall.

Wingo said he plans to major in sociology.

"I've been worrying all this time about the right school for me and here it was under my nose all the time," he said.

TSU becomes the second school in Nashville to integrate its basketball team in the last five years.

Perry Wallace of Vanderbilt was the first black member of the Commodore basketball team—and the first black basketball player in the Southeastern Conference.

Adams Urges Reprimand

HOUSTON (AP) — Bud Adams, owner of the Houston Oilers, says he has asked National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle to reprimand Oakland Raiders General Manager Al Davis' trading tactics.

Trades with Oakland and Washington fell through two weeks ago, Adams said.

"He told us to hold (kicker) Spike Jones last year and he would take him (Jones). When it came time, Davis said he didn't want Jones and we had to let him go (to Buffalo for $100.

Oiler Coach Bill Peterson said he offered to trade holdout offensive tackle Gene Ferguson to the Raiders for Rod Sherman, two draft choice and an offensive lineman.

Davis said after the interconference trading deadline passed that he hadn't offered an offensive lineman in the trade. The delay caused Houston to miss an opportunity to swap Ferguson to the Washington Redskins, Ferguson reported back to the Oiler camp this week.

"I told the league office it was a very flagrant, misleading trade made by Davis and I wasn't going to stand for that, even if we had to go before the commissioner for a hearing," Adams said.

Orantes, King Pace Net Lists

Boston (AP) — Manuel Orantes of Spain and Billie Jean King of Palm-Aire, Fla., held slim leads this week in the $375,000-plus Commercial Union Grand Prix tennis competition, it was announced Tuesday.

Orantes has 389 points, 60 more than Ilie Nastase of Rumania. Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., is third with 292.

Miss King leads the women with 384 points, followed by Evonne Goolagong of Australia, 358, and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 200.

The tournament, under the management of the International Lawn Tennis Federation, offers cash bonus awards to 20 men and 15 women based on their order of finish in the season-long standings.

Goolagong Nabs Tennis Triumph

Toronto (AP) — Top-seeded Evonne Goolagong of Australia advanced to the third round of women's singles play in the Canadian Open Tennis Championships Tuesday with a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Japan's Sazuko Sawanatsu.

In men's play, No. 1 seed Ilie Nastase won his second-round match by running off four straight points in a third-set tiebreaker and defeating Frew McMillan of South Africa 6-4, 2-6, 7-6.

Also advancing was the No. 2 women's seed, Margaret Court of Australia, who beat Sue Minford of Ireland 6-2, 6-0.

Campbell Will Miss Houston Exhibition

Kerrville, Tex. (UPI) -- Running back Woody Campbell, a Houston Oiler starter since his rookie year, will miss Saturday's game against the Green Bay Packers because of a death in his family, a team spokesman said Tuesday.

Campbell, a 5-11, 208-pound veteran, will attend his sister's funeral. The spokesman said rookie running back Willie Rodgers will probably replace Campbell in the Oilers backfield.

Flenniken Tops

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Carol Sorenson Flenniken, Golden, Colo., an attractive 29-year-old blonde, shot a sizzling two-under-par 70 for a 36-hole total of 148 and won the qualifying medal in the 72nd annual U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Tournament Tuesday.

The medal was the first Mrs. Flenniken has ever grabbed in the 10 U.S. amateur tournaments in which she has participated.

She was in the first threesome that teed off in the second round and was never seriously challenged on the steamy St. Louis Country Club course. Defending champion Laura Baugh, 17, Whittier, Calif., flirted with par, scoring a 74 for a 36-hole total of 151, good for runner-up medalist honors.

Par for the course is 35-37—72. Mrs. Flenniken was out in 33 and back in 37. On the front side she had three birdies and an eagle 2 on the 315-yard No. 6 hole, where she sank a 60-yard half-wedge shot that never touched the green. She toured the back nine in even par.

Carol also three-putted two greens, declaring, "I'm a very poor putter. I like to knock them in off the greens so I don't have to putt."

Carol said she limited her Women's Amateur competition to cities convenient to her home.

'Comeback' Predicted By Staubach

Dallas (AP) — Roger Staubach tried to smile but somehow it just never came off.

"I'll be OK," he said. "I'll come back stronger than ever."

Photographers clustered around Staubach's hospital bed Tuesday for the first pictures allowed by Dallas Cowboy officials since his operation Sunday for a shoulder separation.

Staubach was injured Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game with Los Angeles.

The Cowboys were still allowing no interviews, so Staubach just sat glumly in his bed while the flash bulbs exploded. He appeared drawn from his ordeal.

"Try to make it quick," he muttered, as he leafed through a national sports magazine.

The sixth-floor room at Baylor Hospital was banked with a number of vases jammed with flowers. Staubach's right shoulder was tightly harnessed.

With the picture-snapping at an end, the photographers filed out and someone said "Good luck."

That's when Staubach, his jaw set, answered he would be better than ever.

The doctors say it will be 12 weeks before the Dallas quarterback returns to action.

NCAA Sets Cage Sites

Boston (AP) — The executive committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association announced Tuesday that the regional finals of its 1974 University Division basketball tournament will be held at North Carolina State, the University of Alabama, New Mexico State and the University of Arizona.

The committee, holding its annual meeting here, also ruled that teams this year can dress 14 players in the tournament, two more than previously allowed.

The committee announced that the 1976 finals will be played at the Spectrum in Philadelphia in connection with the nation's bicentennial which that city is hosting.

In the College Division, the committee voted to extend automatic qualification to the champions of the following conferences: Central Intercollegiate, Far Western, Gulf South, Indiana Collegiate, Middle Atlantic North, Middle Atlantic South, Missouri Intercollegiate, North Central, Ohio Athletic, Southern Intercollegiate and State universities of New York.

In connection with the NCAA baseball playoffs, the committee voted to limit players suited on university division teams to 21 and on College Division teams to 18. Previously there had been no limit.

Stokes Benefit Cage Game Held

Monticello, N.Y. (UPI) — Johnny Green of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings scored 22 points, 14 of them in the second quarter, to spark a Willis Reed coached team to an 85-82 victory over a team coached by Red Auerbach Tuesday night in the 14th annual Maurice Stokes Benefit Basketball Game at Kutsher's Country Club.

Green, 38, the oldest active player in the National Basketball Association, was voted the game's most valuable player. Billy Cunningham, former all-star for the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA who will be playing for the ABA Carolina Cougars this season, led the losers with 17 points.

Stokes, a former player for the Cincinnati Royals, was stricken at the age of 24 with encephalitis and died in 1970 at the age of 36. Part of the proceeds from this game go to the Naismith Basketball Hall of fame in Springfield, Mass.

LA Cornerback Williams Hurt

Long Beach, Calif. (UPI) Veteran left cornerback Clancy Williams sprained his left knee during a workout Tuesday and a Los Angeles Ram spokesman said he will be out of action for at least two weeks.

Williams, a Washington State University graduate who has been with the Rams eight years, was running backward when he fell down and the knee was sprained. The leg was put in a cast.

The injury came only a week after another cornerback, Jim Nettles sprained his right ankle. Nettles, who missed the Dallas game last Saturday, is a doubtful starter for next Saturday's game against Oakland and coach Tommy Prothro said he may have to use rookie Jim Massey of Linfoeld, Ore., in the slot.

South All-Stars Lose Scrimmage

Kearney (UPI) — Coach Lyle Buell of Millard, who heads the South squad for Friday night's All-Star basketball game at Lincoln, said Tuesday night he was satisfied after the night's final scrimmage against the Kearney State varsity squad.

Buell's contingent was defeated in a Sunday night five-quarter scrimmage by the Kearney Staters, and again Tuesday night. However, Buell said the performance of his players was impressive.

"I was satisfied," Buell said. "I hope the kids were. I thought we played well."

He and assistant coach Rueben Schleifer of Chester said they were especially pleased at the work on the defensive boards against the bigger team.

"I think we did a good job on the fast break also," Buell commented. "We wouldn't always get a bucket, but we got a good job getting it out."

Cited for special mention were Keith Brown of Omaha Central, who led the All-Stars with 20 points in the scrimmage, Kerry Harper of Millard with 15, and Kim Veerhusen of Adams with 14.

Only a light workout was scheduled for Wednesday.

Carter Named To Starting Spot

Wilmington, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Virgil Carter, who has completed only three of 11 passes in two pre-season games, was selected Tuesday by Bengals coach Paul Brown to start Saturday night here aganst the Miami Dolphins.

Brown said there was nothing significant to his selection of Carter over Ken Anderson who led Cincinnati to a 28-20 triumph last Saturday over the Detroit Lions here.

Brown said he will be alternating the quarterbacks through the pre-season National Football League contests. He said he "will set no amount of time Carter will play. It depends on how things go."

Frazier-Ali Title Match Negotiations Stymied

. . . FOREMAN BOUT GIVEN 'GO AHEAD'

Philadelphia (AP) — Negotiations for a heavyweight title return match between champion Joe Frazier and No. 1 challenger Muhammad Ali are at an impasse.

Atty. Bruce Wright, secretary of Cloverlay Corp., Frazier's backer since 1965, said negotiations with Jack Kent Cooke are at a standstill. Cooke holds an opinion on the return bout.

"We told them what we want and we even offered to drop the guarantee and work on a percentage, but they wouldn't go along," Wright said.

Frazier has said he wants

More Sports, Page 40

$3 million to fight Ali, whom he defeated in 15 rounds at Madison Square Garden in New York in March 1970.

Wright said he also has given a "go ahead" to two promoters for a match with George Foreman, the 1968 Olympic champion, who is unbeaten as a professional.

"Madison Square Garden told us that they can work out the tax situation in New York and we agreed to fight Foreman there," Wright said. "We also agreed to take the same match to the Houston Astrodome. But at both ends they were apparently unable to get Foreman. At least, we haven't heard from them."

The World Boxing Association has ordered Frazier to defend his title against a ranking contender, notably Ali, and has threatened to lift the title if he doesn't comply. Frazier hasn't defended against a fighter in the top 10 heavyweight rankings in nearly a year and a half.

Frazier's reply is that he has "been through" all the top contenders except Foreman and Floyd Patterson, and neither seems willing to challenge him.

Cloverlay, which was formed in 1965 to sponsor Frazier's boxing career, held its first open meeting Tuesday for the champion's 900 plus "managers" in two years. The contract with the champion extends to December 1974.

The 900 shareholders own in excess of 40,000 shares, $1 par value and priced at $100 per share. Frazier was not at the meeting.

North Shriners 'Sharpen Up'

Fremont (AP) — The North Shrine football squad spent its practice sessions Tuesday "primarily working on sharpening up" head coach Les Lee of Scottsbluff said.

"We are holding off on the heavy contact work at this time," Lee said, and doing more "skeletal type scrimmages," such as pitting receivers against a defensive backfield.

As far as decisions on starter at quarterback, Lee said coaches have "nothing definite" at this time. He said the two quarterbacks, Randy Benish of Norfolk and Mike Dambrosia of Omaha North, "both will see quite a bit of action" whichever one starts.

Lee said he will "utilize them both as much as possible."

He also singled out as possible starters at halfback Bob Martin of David City, Randy Bailey of Omaha Burke and Tom Heiser of Columbus.

Mentioned at the fullback spot was Randy Gallu of Norfolk.

The team was to leave Fremont early Wednesday for a workout in Lincoln on the artificial turf and then to return for another practice late Wednesday afternoon at Fremont.

Ryun Highlights Two-Mile Event

Lawrence, Kan. (UPI) — Olympian Jim Ryun, America's foremost 1,500-meter hopeful, will tune up Wednesday night in a two-mile race, which may be his last race ever at the University of Kansas.

Ryun's competition will be George Young, Ken Sparks and Canadian Grant McLaren.

Ryun formerly held the American two-mile record at 8:25.2. Young now holds the mark at 8:22.0. McLaren's best is 8:27.4, the Canadian indoor record.

Ryun will be competing in his third Olympics later this month at Munich, Germany. He holds world records in the 1,500 meters (3:33.1), mile (3:51.1) and half-mile (1:44.9).

The featured two-mile is scheduled to go off at 8 p.m. (CDT).

Siitonen Discus Toss Sets Personal Best

Helsinki (AP) — Javelin thrower Hannu Siitonen of Finland set a personal best of 290 feet, 7½ inches at a track meet in Aanekoski Tuesday night. It was the second best throw in the world this year.

Only world record holder Janis Lusis of Soviet Union has done better — 307-9.

QB Morton 'Capable' Says Landry

Dallas (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry predicted Tuesday that "most people will write us off" in the wake of a shoulder separation to the No. 1 quarterback of the Super Bowl champions and the trade of stellar running back Duane Thomas.

But Landry said that Craig Morton was more than capable of handling the duties vacated by Roger Staubach, who is now recuperating from surgery in Baylor Hospital.

"Morton has been most effective in the games he has been in since last year," Landry said. "and Calvin Hill is rounding back into his old form."

Landry said he felt Staubach would be back by late November.

"I know he will work hard," Landry said.

The Cowboys have been in the quarterback market since Staubach's injury Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game with the Los Angeles Rams.

Backfield coach Danny Reeves, a retired running back, was moved into the backup role.

The Cowboys have contacted Jack Concannon, a quarterback holdout of the Chicago Bears but a Dallas spokesman wasn't hopeful.

"They'll (Chicago) want too much for him," the Cowboy official said.

Landry said he planned to play Morton most of the way Saturday night against the New Orleans Saints in another preseason game.

"He (Morton) needs the work," Landry said. "You can't worry about him getting hurt."

Landry said he wasn't certain whether he would activate Reeves for the Saint game.

Africans Threaten Boycott If Rhodesians Participate

. . . 'DEAD' ISSUE SPRINGS TO LIFE

Munich, Germany (AP) — The Rhodesian issue, declared dead by International Olympic Committee President Avery Brundage, sprang to life again Tuesday as a growing number of black African nations announced they would boycott the Munich Games.

Arriving in Munich Tuesday, Brundage dismissed the African protests against Rhodesian participation in the Games by saying, "This is politics. Pure politics. We are not concerned with politics. All sportsmen will be here."

Within hours, however, Liberia, Ghana and Ethiopia joined Tanzania, Sierra Leone and Zambia in announcing their withdrawal from the XXth Olympiad, which opens Aug. 26.

There were reports from Cairo, that Egypt and the Sudan would follow suit if Rhodesian athletes compete. And in Lagos, Nigeria's External Affairs Commissioner, Dr. Okoi Arikpo, said he hoped the Nigerian Olympic Committee will "give serious thought" to the call of the Organizations of African Unity for member countries to stay away from Munich.

Other doubtful starters are reported to be Uganda and — out of sympathy — the Latin American nation of Guayana. Ethiopia, Uganda, the Sudan, together with Kenya, Lesotho, Senegal and Togo already have athletes registered in Munich's Olympic Village.

Two Liberian athletes also are said to be in Munich, but the organizers said their names were not yet listed on the village's register.

Black African athletes were reluctant to discuss the controversy, but expressed surprise at the sudden withdrawal announcements.

A spokesman for the Olympic Organizing Committee said no official word of withdrawals had yet been received in Munich.

"Until we do have official word or until an African team actually leaves the village, we will have no comment," the spokesman said.

Brundage insisted, "we made an agreement a year ago with all the Natonal Olympic Committees concerned. Rhodesia was invited. Rhodesia will participate. We think for the moment that the question is settled."

In allowing the break-away, white-ruled British colony to participate, the Rhodesians were required to enroll as British subjects, march under the old flag with the Union Jack and accept "God Save the Queen" as their national anthem.

Only last Wednesday, a delegation from the Supreme Council of Sports in Africa dropped its objections to Rhodesia's participation after meeting with organizers in Munich.

But then the Organization of African Unity renewed its call for a boycott. Saying there was ample evidence that discrimination in sports exists in Rhodesia and that the Salisbury regime is seeking participation "to further its political aims."

The 44-member Rhodesian team, which arrived in Munich last Friday, included seven black athletes and a black trainer.

If black African nations form a solid front against the International Olympic Committee, one source close to the Munich Organizing Committee said, they will lose much of their standing within the Olympic movement.

This concern also was raised Monday night by the Nigerian president of the Supreme Council for Sports in Africa, Abraham Ordia, who said in Lagos that a boycott would mean "we shall break faith with the world body and Africa will not be taken seriously again in the future."

Iowa State Gets Tennessee QB

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee lost a standout quarterback prospect Tuesday when Dan Fletcher of Cedar Rapids, Iowa notified coach Bill Battle he plans to transfer to Iowa State.

Fletcher, a 175-pound sophomore, had been counted on to be the Vols' backup quarterback behind Condredge Holloway, another sophomore.

As a freshman last fall, Fletcher completed 28 of 74 passes for 361 yards and four touchdowns.

Oakland Back Davis Sidelined With Injury

Oakland (AP) — Oakland Raiders running back Clarence Davis will miss 10 weeks of action with a broken bone in his right shoulder, the National Football League club said Tuesday.

Davis' injury marred the Raiders' 6-0 exhibition victory over the Baltimore Colts Monday night.

Barkum Signs Pact With New York Jets

Hempstead, N.Y. (AP) — Wide receiver Jerome Barkum, the New York Jets' No. 1 draft choice from Jackson State, signed his contract with the National Football League club Tuesday, then worked out with the club. He is being tested behind veteran Don Maynard.

The Jets also announced that another rookie wide receiver, No. 3 pick Gary Hammond from Southern Methodist University, would have a knee examined Wednesday to determine whether it needs treatment or if it can be forced into shape by continued playing.

Coletta To California

Anaheim, Calif. (AP) — The California Angels traded outfielder Andy Kosko to Boston Tuesday for minor league outfielder Chris Coletta, 28, and an undisclosed amount of cash, the club said

African Athletes Reveal Power At Pre-Olympic Track Meet

Munich, Germany (AP) — African athletes showed their power with 1-2-3 sweeps in the 10,000 meters and the 3,000 meters steeplechase in a preOlympic meet Tuesday — just as the threatened African boycott of the Olympic Games was spreading.

More African countries, including Ethiopia, announced they would boycott the games because Rhodesia is competing.

Emile Tadesse of Ethiopia ran away with the 10,000 in 38 minutes, 39.4 seconds-exactly one minute outside the world record of Australia Ron Clarke.

Ben Jipcho of Kenya took the steeplechase in 8:27.43—less than four seconds over the best time in the world this year.

With 12 days to go before the start of the Olympics, athletes warmed up at the Hanns Braun Sports Festival at Munich's Dante Stadium.

The Africans grabbed the glamor. But the United States which as yet has sent only a small advance guard of athletes to Munich, won four events.

Ralph Mann, of Provo, Utah, won the 400 meters hurdles in 49.8 which is 1.4 seconds slower than his best time this year.

Dave Roberts cleared 17.4¾ for first place in the pole vault. Arnie Robinson of San Diego and the U.S. Army won the long jump at 25-7½, and George Woods of Warden, Ill., won the shot put with a heave of 69-5.

An announcement from Addis Ababa that Ethiopian athletes would be withdrawn was made about the time that Tadesse was winning his 10,000 meters victory.

For lap after lap Tadesse set the pace along with Paul Mose of Kenya and two other Ethiopians. Mose finished second and Masresha Wuhib of Ethiopia third, but on the last halflap Pedro Miranda of Mexico broke up the African formation and stole fourth place.

The steeplechase was an extraordinary affair dominated by three Kenyans — Jipcho, Amos Biwott and the reigning Olympic 1,500 meters champion Kip Keino.

They pulled out ahead after the first lap and soon opened up a 50 meters gap in front of their closest rivals.

Jipcho finished 20 meters ahead of Biwott. Keino cracked 200 meters from home but was never in danger of losing third place.

The meet was held in a heavy humid atmosphere and times generally were not fast. But the women's 1,000 meters produced two national records—2:41.81 by the winner, Christa Merten of West Germany, and 2:44.33 by Canada's Thelma Flynn-Wright, who placed second.

The Africans complained about the humidity. Tadesse, who also finished third in the 800 meters, said a similar atmosphere during the Olympics could make a difference of one second in the winning time.

A spokesman of the Kenyan team said: "More sunshine and less humidity would be better for us. We think the track is very good but we can't compete as well in this humidity."

But America's Fred Newhouse, who won the 400 meters in 45.47, was happy with the conditions.

"I'm from south Texas and this humidity is comfortable for me," Newhouse said. "It's just like running back home."

Newhouse is not running in the Olympics because he failed to qualify for the U.S. team.

Stan Wright, the United States sprint coach, said: "There is a possibility now that Newhouse could be activated if one of the other 400 meters men can't compete."

Omahans Plan Shooting Range

Omaha (AP) — A new $300,000 trap and skeet shooting range is planned for Omaha early next spring.

The new layout is to be located at Seymour Smith Park and will be part of a $500,000 development in the city-owned park.

A spokesman, Bob Estabrook of Omaha, said the idea was perpetrated by a group who felt the need of a public trap and skeet range within the metropolitan Omaha area.

The money will be supplied by a non-profit corporation through a bond issue. The city will operate the range, with the proceeds earmarked to pay off the bond issue.

Estabrook said the growing popularity of trapshooting and a good facility will enhance the sport in Omaha. Plans are to have the range open all year.

Jensens Win Legion Crown

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Jensens defeated Omaha Dugdales 6-1 Tuesday night to win the state American Legion Junior baseball championship.

The win advances Jensens to the regional tournament in Hastings, to be played Aug. 22-30.

Jensens pitcher Mitch Hansen, who had pitched fine relief ball in three previous tournament games, allowed Dugdales to scatter only seven hits to take the win.

Dan Meyers and George Maness provided power at the plate for Jensens. Meyers hit a two run homer in the sixth inning, and Maness belted a two-run homer in the eighth.

Ballard Faces Fraud Charges

Toronto (UPI) — Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, was found guilty Tuesday on 47 fraud and theft charges involving nearly $205,000 of Gardens funds.

Judge Harry Deyman set sentencing for Sept. 7. The 69-year-old Ballard could receive a suspended sentence or a prison term of up to 20 years.

In his 122-page written report, Judge Deyman said the evidence produced "a clear pattern of fraud." Witnesses testified that about $82,000 of Gardens money was used to pay for extensive repairs and remodelling of Ballard's home and summer cottage, as well as gifts for his children.

Hastings Meet Officials Named

Hastings (AP) —A team of experienced umpires has been chosen for the Central Plains Regional Baseball tournament to be played in Hastings Aug. 23-28.

The winner of this event goes to Memphis, Tenn., for the American Legion Junior baseball World Series.

The four umpires are George Hametz, Lincoln, who has been umpiring for 27 years including 10 College World Series assignments; Ken Kenny of Leavenworth, Kan., a 25-year umpire; John Vallina of Belleville, Ill., a 20-year umpire; and David Goodnature of Austin, Minn., a 24-year umpire.

Eagles' Pick Yochum To Ink Montreal Pact

Philadelphia (UPI) — Dan Yochum, the Philadelphia Eagles' No. 2 draft pick, switched signals on the National Football League club Tuesday and apparently will sign with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

A spokesman for Eagle general manager Pete Retzlaff said the Alouettes' general manager telephoned Tuesday to say the offensive tackle was "going to sign" with the CFL club.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
